SURVIVORSHIP INFORMATION AND QUESTIONS

One copy of the Survivor's Affidavit is required in order to obtain an uncollected payment. (This copy is necessary to cash the warrant of a deceased recipient, providing the recipient was entitled to the warrant).

SIGNING AFFIDAVITS AND ENDORSING WARRANT

Affidavits: The names and signatures of all survivors entitled to succeed, or sole beneficiary, must appear on all copies of the affidavits required.

Warrant: To endorse the warrant of the deceased, one of the survivors writes the name of the deceased as it appears on the warrant, and his own signature underneath the name. The signatures of all other survivors entitled to succeed must appear beneath the decedent's name. The signature(s) of the survivor(s) is to be preceded with the word "by".

THE FOLLOWING QUESTIONS ARE TO ASSIST PERSON COMPLETING SURVIVOR'S AFFIDAVIT:

(1) Date of death______________________ (2) Was there a will? Yes___No____

(3) Is estate being probated? Yes___No___. If the answer to (3) is "yes", the disbursement must proceed through the executor or administrator of the estate. This person may file the necessary letters of administration with the Treasurer and obtain the payment. In this situation, this affidavit is not necessary. If the estate is not being probated, Survivor's Affidavits may be used only by next of kin designated as sole beneficiary in the last will and testament or by person(s) entitled to succeed to estate as next of kin. Refer to Section 630, Probate Code, for information regarding next of kin having a right to succeed to decedent's property.

(4) Are there other survivors? Yes___No___. List their names on the front of the affidavit in the column of their relationship to deceased.

(5) Did decedent leave any real property; have any interest in or lien on real property? Yes___No___. If the answer is "yes", this affidavit may not be used, unless ALL real property was in joint tenancy.

(6) What is the total value of the decedent's personal property in this state, not including salary and compensation for unused vacation of less than $3,000.00 due the decedent from employment, and not including money due from services in the Armed Forces of the United States? $______________________. If the answer is $3,000.00 or more, this affidavit cannot be used, and the survivor(s) should seek legal assistance. If the answer is less than $3,000.00, Section 630 of the California Probate Code authorizes the disposition of the decedent's estate without administration when such estate consists entirely of personal property. (The value of a motor vehicle owned by the decedent can be excluded from the value of the estate).

Dear Ms. Horton:

We have been advised of the death of Herbert Ham who was receiving a surviving spouse continuance from the San Diego County Employees Retirement Association.

A final retirement allowance is due Mr. Ham's estate. In order to disburse the funds, we require either a copy of the Letters Testamentary or, if there is to be no probate, the names, addresses and relationships of Mr. Ham's survivors.

Your assistance in this matter is appreciated.

Inpatient Hospital Days	Lifetime Reserve Days	Extended Care Days	Home Health Visits Hospital Insurance	Home Health Visits Medical Insurance

EXPLANATION OF ITEMS 1, 2 AND 3

1 PAYMENT OF BENEFITS—Payment for covered services was made on your behalf directly to the organization shown in item 1. Medicare paid for all services covered by the program except for items shown in item 2. YOUR MEDICARE HANDBOOK tells you what hospital insurance pays for in a benefit period and what medical insurance pays for in each calendar year.

Hospital insurance covers inpatient hospital care, skilled nursing facility care and home health agency visits. Home health visits are also covered by Medicare under medical insurance but the 2 benefits are handled separately. The visits you receive under one do not affect the number of visits available under the other. You must be hospitalized for at least 3 days in a row to qualify for home health visits under your hospital insurance but you do not have to be hospitalized first to get home health benefits under your medical insurance.

Generally, Part B medical insurance benefits for services you may have received from a physician or supplier are not included on this record. If you have received Part B physician or supplier services, separate notices about these services will be sent to you.

2 CHARGES NOT PAID BY MEDICARE—Any covered charges not paid for by Medicare are shown in item 2. Medicare does not always pay the full cost of covered services. For example, beginning Jan. 1, 1977, you are responsible for the first $124 in charges for inpatient hospital services in each benefit period. You are responsible for $31 a day for the 61st through 90th day of inpatient hospital services in a benefit period. You are responsible for $15.50 a day for the 21st through 100th day of inpatient extended care services in a benefit period. You are responsible for $62 a day for each "lifetime reserve" day used. You are responsible for the first $60 of reasonable charges for services covered by Part B in each calendar year.

Physicians' charges are not covered by Medicare hospital insurance, but they are covered by Medicare medical insurance. If you have the medical insurance and received services in a hospital from a radiologist or pathologist (X-ray or laboratory), the reasonable charges for these services are covered in full.

Hospital insurance never pays for some charges, such as TV or telephone and private duty nursing. The added cost of a private room can be paid only if medically necessary. Medical insurance never pays for some charges, such as meals delivered to the home and full time nursing care. YOUR MEDICARE HANDBOOK describes these non-covered items in more detail.

3 BENEFITS USED THIS TIME—Item 3 only shows the number of covered days or visits furnished by the organization and for the period, shown in Item 1. If you received other covered services before or after that date, separate notices about those benefits will be sent to you. A separate notice is sent each time payment for covered services is made on your behalf.

Days or visits still available in the benefit period or in the calendar year will not be paid for unless all Medicare requirements are met. The law does not cover all types and levels of institutional and home care. For a definition of "benefit period" and a detailed explanation of Medicare requirements, see Your Medicare Handbook or ask at your social security office.

GENERAL INFORMATION

A. Benefits from Other Insurance or Medical Assistance

If you have other health insurance coverage or qualify for state medical assistance, the insurance organization or state assistance agency may help pay the part of your bill not covered by Medicare. This record may be useful in claiming such benefits.

B. Your Right to Reconsideration of this Medicare Benefit Determination

If you believe that Medicare should have covered more of your expenses, please ask the office shown at the bottom of item 2 for an explanation.

You may also request a reconsideration of the decision. If you want a reconsideration, you must request it not later than 60 days from the date of receipt of this record. The request should be sent to your social security office. If you are not satisfied with the reconsideration determination, you may request a hearing. If you want this hearing, you must request it not later than 60 days from the date of receipt of the notice of reconsideration.

C. For More Information—If you have questions not answered in Your Medicare Handbook, please call or visit your social security office. The people there will be glad to help you. If you visit them, be sure to take this record and any other papers concerning the services involved. If you write, be sure to include your Health Insurance Claim Number exactly as it appears on this record.

The dial tone may take a few extra seconds during busiest hours. When you hear the steady "hummmmmmm" of the dial tone, go ahead with your call. But if you don't hear it at once, please wait until the familiar humming sound comes through. Dialing without the tone gives you a wrong number — or no number at all.

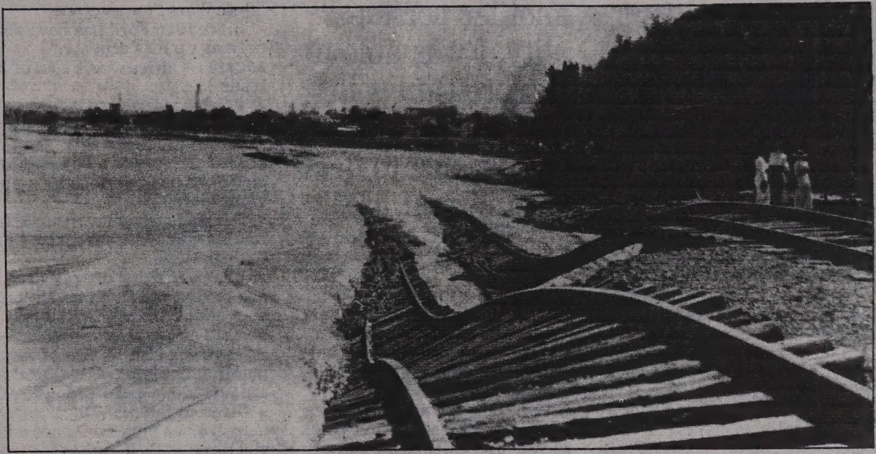
Many lives, buildings lost in Pueblo flood

Peek at the Past, a weekly historical feature, runs Sundays in Lifestyle. In it we reprint stories from the past, preserving the language, sensibilities and prejudices of the day.

The following story, excerpted from the Colorado Springs Gazette, reports the worst flood in Pueblo history. After a cloudburst, the Arkansas river flooded the lowlands and downtown area, reaching a depth of 21 feet, 4 inches at the area of the Riverside school, while carrying away more than 600 houses and causing $20 million in damage. More than 150 people died.

Penrose Library



The Pueblo flood of 1921 washed away railroad passenger coaches, freight cars and tracks.

June 5, 1921

Pueblo's district tonight is a mass of wrecked buildings. Its streets are deep in mud from the Arkansas river, which yesterday overflowed its banks, bringing the worst flood in the history of the city. The death list probably will mount into the hundreds when toll is taken of the wrecked residences and rooming houses in the river bottoms.

A trip over the city by airplane revealed a zone of disaster. Residences had been toppled over, railroad passenger coaches and freight cars had been swept in every direction or smashed into kindling. Blackened ruins showed the location of fires started last night by burning lumber from a lumber yard floating thru the streets in the flood tide. It looked as if a third of the city had been in the flood district.

All persons were prohibited from entering the district without a permit and then only up to 7 o'clock. Scores of persons were detected looting stores as the flood poured its way into the streets last night. A hundred shots were fired at the looters by soldiers.

PEEK AT THE PAST

Two morgues tonight held 132 bodies and scores of dead were discovered in wrecked buildings where their recovery was impossible because of mud and debris. The force of the flood carried entire buildings down the stream and it is believed many of the dead were carried far down the river and may never be recovered.

The first warning of yesterday's flood came shortly after five o'clock, telephone messages which said that dams near Portland were threatened and the water in the Arkansas River had risen dangerously at Westmore, Portland and Florence. The fire department siren sounded 15-minute flood warnings and within a short time every available police officer and guardsman was sent into the West Peppersauce river bottoms of West Pueblo to warn the inhabitants.

People were slow to leave and many refused according to soldiers. One woman dragged from her home before the flood-crest reached the bottoms, crawled under the house and refused to come out. It is feared a heavy loss of life resulted in this section. Scores of people were caught as the flood entered Main street flowing south into Union avenue. Within two hours the entire wholesale district and a greater part of the business district were flooded with water 10 feet deep.

The Pueblo Chieftain, located off Main street, had only a three-day supply of print paper in the building. This was water-soaked, and with no power to operate the linotype machines or press it was unable to get out an edition. Handbills, set and operated on hand-operated machines, gave meager reports yesterday.

One old man, 75 years old, remained all night in a tree in the north part of town, and was rescued yesterday afternoon. He said he had seen nearly a hundred people perish during the night. Another man, whose name was not secured, watched over 50 squatters, Mexicans and Italians, washed away thru the section just below Union avenue. They were carried into the giant stream. The mud and sand being carried downstream will perhaps cover them and bury them under the foundation.

METRO CENTRAL

That's Clarendon, Texas, a town of 2,000 people located mid-way between Amarillo and Childress on highway 287, in the heart of the rapidly expanding Panhandle Region. Clarendon's business district is constantly expanding and going through a period of modernization.

CLIMATE

Since Clarendon is geographically located below the Caprock, wind doesn't present a problem. Clarendon is in a temperate climate, situated on gently sloping terrain. The sun shines an average of 312 days a year.

HISTORY

Old Clarendon was founded by a Methodist circuit rider named Carhart. The original location was on the Salt Fork of the Red River, six miles North of the present location; the current site of Greenbelt Lake. While other settlements boasted numerous bars, Clarendon was a town of churches. "Saints' Roost" was the name the irreverent used, to characterize the village and its religious atmosphere.

When the railroad moved West, Clarendon moved, too. In 1886, the town moved to its present location on the Fort Worth & Denver Railroad.

EDUCATION

Dubbed the "Athens of the Panhandle", Clarendon has long been dedicated to excellence in higher education. The junior college is located on a modern campus at the corner of Bugbee St. and 287. It offers liberal arts courses as well as vocational specialities, and all academic courses are transferable.

RECREATION

Greenbelt Lake, just North of Clarendon on Texas 70, is a sparkling, spring-fed lake covering 2,600 acres. Northern Pike, Rainbow Trout, and other species of game fish challenge fishermen throughout the year. Sailing, boating, swimming and picknicking round out the outdoor attractions at the popular lake. Trailer hookups and campsites are also available.

On the North shore of Greenbelt Lake is an 18-hole championship golf course. Visitors are welcome to play the course for a modest green fee. In the Fall, Clarendon is headquarters for hunters seeking abundant quail, dove, white-tailed and mule deer. African Auodad sheep have found to their liking the rugged, colorful canyon country Southwest of Clarendon. The large-maned animals with massive, scimitar-shaped horns are highly prized as exotic game trophies.

MAJOR EVENTS

The July Fourth Celebration brings thousands to Clarendon each year for an old-fashioned festival including a rodeo, parade, craft fair, reunions, fiddlers contest and a traditional Western dance.

In October a Cotton Festival is celebrated in nearby Hedley.

FLOOD DEPTH

Pueblo prides itself for bouncing back from adversity, such as a 1921 flood, noted on City Hall.

Town goes from trading post to smelting center to water sports haven

The confluence of Fountain Creek and the Arkansas River made this area a crossroads of cultures. From the 1500s to the 1800s, Ute, Apache, Comanche, Arapahoe and Cheyenne tribes hunted and traded here.

The Arkansas River, which runs through the middle of what would become Pueblo, was the international border between French and Spanish territory and separated Mexico from U.S. territory from 1821 to 1848.

When the fort El Pueblo was built in 1842 it served as a trading post for the French, the Spanish and Indian tribes.

Later, a steel mill would drive Pueblo to the forefront of the industrial revolution and leave the town with the state's most diverse ethnic mix.

Here is a short chronology of the events that shaped Pueblo.

1842: El Pueblo is established near Court and First streets as a fort and trading post with cornfields and livestock.

1854: Ute Indians, angry at the U.S. government, raid the fort, and it's never used again. Its ruins are now under excavation near El Pueblo Museum.

1860: Prospectors, miners and farmers organize a town. It is named Pueblo in honor of the trading post.

1870: The town of Pueblo incorporates.

1873: The town of South Pueblo incorporates.

1878: The Pueblo Smelting and Refining Co. opens a plant and during the next decade builds Pueblo into the smelting capital of the world.

1879: Colorado Coal and Steel Works Co. (now CF&I Steel Corp.) becomes the town's main industry, producing rails for the train tracks.

1879: The Colorado State Insane Asylum opens. The name is changed to the Colorado State Hospital in 1917 and to the Colorado Mental Health Institute in 1991.

1886: Pueblo and two neighboring towns, Central Pueblo and South Pueblo, consolidate.

1886: The Colorado State Fair Association incorporates.

1890: Pueblo Union Depot is built, serving five railroads.

1900: The population swells to nearly 35,000, more than half of whom are immigrants who've come to work at the steel mill.

1921: The Arkansas River overflows from its banks, leaving 120 residents dead, 142 missing, and more than half the town's property destroyed.

1922: Pueblo's biggest public works project diverts the Arkansas River around the city.

1933: Southern Colorado Junior College incorporates. It expands to University of Southern Colorado in 1975.

1971: The Federal Consumer Information Center opens. It helps put Pueblo back on the map nationally, but locals rarely pay much attention to it.

1973: The Sangre de Cristo Arts Center opens.

1976: Pueblo Mall opens in South Pueblo, drawing retail business from the downtown area.

Dear Mr. Ham:

The request to surrender your life insurance policy has been received. We certainly want to assist you in every way possible. That's why, before you lose the valuable benefits of this contract, we want to be sure you are aware of these facts:

- Your cash value increases each year.
- A surrendered policy can never be reinstated. Evidence of good health will be required for a new policy.
- You have a paid-up policy. No further premiums are required.
- The costs of issuing your policy have been paid. If this policy is to be replaced, these costs would be paid again. In addition, contestable and suicide periods apply to a new policy. The enclosed booklet explains why consumer organizations, state insurance departments and the life insurance industry agree that your present policy is still your best buy.

May we suggest you consider an alternative before giving up the advantages your present policy provides. You may obtain immediate cash by making a policy loan. Presently there is $1137.68 available less interest to February 28, 1983. All we need is your request and a loan draft will be sent by return mail. The loan can be repaid at any time in amounts of $10.00 or more. For your convenience, BMA offers several systematic repayment plans or, if you prefer, the

HARLON BARTLETT'S OUTDOORS

Bassing falls off but yellows take up slack

At the same time San Diego county's bassing has fallen on hard times, yellowtail at the Coronado Islands have rallied strongly to take up the slack.

After a so-so day at the islands Saturday, 374 anglers from Municipal Landing and Imperial Beach Sportfishing averaged almost two yellows apiece Sunday.

The fish are big, averaging 20 pounds and some in the 30-pound class.

A 32-pounder was taken by Gordon Johnson of Huntington Beach aboard the Pacific Queen, while Susan Wentz of Lemon Grove took a 28-5 on the Holiday.

During a "full bore" bite yesterday, 22 fishermen on the Holiday collected 98 yellowtail — two short of a "hump" catch, 20 bonito and 13 barracuda.

Squid and anchovies have been most effective and some fish are taking jigs. Clean, 64-degree water at Middle Grounds is helping the action along.

Generally speaking, pier fishing is on the upswing, too. Even bonito (remember them?) showed up for a brief bite in San Diego Bay last week.

Bass fishing is this poor: "I don't think I've ever seen fishing at El Capitan any worse than it is now," judged Larry Bottroff, DFG biologist.

Only two big fish were reported in the county, a 12-pound, 6-ouncer out of Miramar and an 11-3 from Lake Wohlford.

Bob Crupi of Inglewood took the 12-6 on a crawdad from Miramar's east float, while Judy Jerguson of Escondido used a countdown Rapala for the 11-3 while fishing from shore near the north end of the log boom.

Channel cats at Sutherland, after a feeding spree Wednesday, were hard to come by over the weekend. At the same time, El Cap's cats came to the rescue.

Largest cat taken weighed 10 pounds, 9 ounces. It belonged to George Santos of 5010 Pirotte Dr., who fished with a mudsucker at El Cap's north end.

Sutherland wasn't all bad, however. More than 600 bluegill were checked by lake personnel, including 150 (45 pounds) caught by William Turner and his two sons of 3230 32nd St.

A 10-5 channel cat, landed by Pat Turley of Santa Ana, and a 7-14 bass, dredged up by Herbert Ham of El Cajon, were the best of the bunch at Lake Henshaw, where small bass are hitting at a good clip.

Best lake fishing of all, of course, was at Lake Morena, which the county opened Friday. The 56 fishermen checked at the boat dock had caught nearly 2,200 fish; all but a handful were bullhead cats.

More than 1,500 anglers were at the lake in three days and 41 of the 90 camp sites nearby were used. A Lakeside man, who's identity isn't known, took a 2½-pound bass, the only largemouth catch lake ranger Hugh Lester could verify. A dozen or so crappie also were pulled out.

Lester urged Morena fishermen not to return bullheads, most of which are 5 and 6 inches long, to the water. The reason fishing there is free is because the lake is out of balance — too many bullheads.

The sooner the bullheads are gone the sooner the bass and crappie will bite. Right now it's almost impossible to slip a worm or nightcrawler past the bullheads. It's almost like trying to sneak a sunrise past a rooster.

Corvina at Salton Sea still have mustered no better than a fair bite but a few big fish continue to be taken each week. Tops for last week was an 18½-pounder trolled up by a Huntington Beach man off Salton City.

Bob Estes of South Gate trolled south of Salt Creek for eight corvina, one of the 18-pounder.

This week's trout pla scheduled for Lake Je (1,800 pounds), Lake ford (1,600), Lake (1,000), Miramar Doane Pond on Pa Mountain, San Luis Re er and Santa Margarita er.

A former San Diegan, ney Alfred Wilkins, was ored Saturday night in ding as California's s man of the year by Shasta-Cascade Wonde Assn.

A crowd of 385 attende 18th annual Sports banquet where Wilkins acclaimed for his wo helping protect the state maining free-flowing — Klamath, Trinity, Ee Smith.

Lake Fishing—Best for bass, Wohlford and El Capitan; best for crappie, Henshaw; best for bluegill, Sutherland; best for catfish, none. . . . Top catches recently: 6-pound bass, Daryl Thompson, Spring Valley (black plastic worm at Wohlford); 5¾-pound bass, Lee Gautereau, Poway (black plastic worm, Wohlford); 3-pound 6-ounce and 3-pound 4-ounce trout, H. R. Ham, 670 S. Anza St., El Cajon (cheese, Jennings); 13¼-pound bass limit, Chuck Rosenberg, 9312 Mission Gorge Rd. (injured minnow, El Capitan); 50 bluegill, Ernie Carlton, Los Angeles (red worms, Santa Ysabel arm, Sutherland). . .

32 Wells Keep Henshaw Level Up Even in Dry Years

By BILL RICE

Western Outdoor News Editor

SANTA YSABEL---It has been one of the driest years in Southland history, but you sure couldn't prove it by what happened Saturday in much of Southern California, and at Lake Henshaw, where some 300-plus anglers braved cold temperatures and sometimes heavy rainfall.

Fishermen came out on the short end, but Lake Henshaw gained from it ... not much, but at least a plus, of about an inch of rainfall, according to daily records of the lake kept by manager Jack Ford.

According to Jack's records, all is not lost because of the low rainfall year (only 15 inches this year compared to a normal of over 29 inches). Henshaw stands at a large 770 surface acres, and 32 wells provide enough water to supplant what is drawn off for irrigation, etc., in the valley below. The lake is going down gradually, however, due to evaporation, and the level will slowly go down until October. When the lake reaches 546 surface acres, the same level it was last October.

Ford's records also show that low water level years at Henshaw are usually good years for the fishermen. It's traditionally good bass fishing in low water here, says Ford, but fluctuating water temperatures so far have made 1972 very unpredictable.

Experienced bass fishermen know, however, that Henshaw is one of the most productive of the Southland lakes in any year, wet or dry, hot or cold. It probably gets more fishing pressure (about 300,000 anglers per year) than any other lake, but always ranks among the best in producing bass, crappie, bluegill and catfish. Experienced bass fishermen can usually score well here, and bass often come in bunches---heavily schooled on the many underwater ledges.

Last Saturday was the exception, however, as the air temperatures dipped into the 40's and rain fell for most of the morning. The Saddleback Bassmasters had 22 anglers out competing in a club tournament, and we found the fishing very tough. Only about a dozen bass were creeled, on black plastic worms, with Larry Hopper winning the event, taking four bass on black plastic worms. Largest fish was 3-lbs. 14-oz., by Garcia service department manager Bob Schmidt.

In the weekly derby at the lake, top bass for the week was taken by Herbert Ham of El Cajon. His 7-lb. 14-oz. bass won him $40. Also ~~winning $40 was W. A. Poplow of~~ Long Beach for a 1½-lb. crappie, and Bunnie Mooney of Whittier for a 13-lb. 3-oz. channel catfish. C.E. Morris of Redondo Beach took $40 home for a 1-lb. 6-oz. bullhead catfish, and three anglers split the $40 for 9-oz. bluegill.

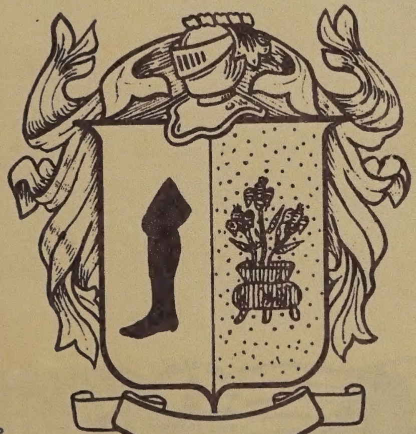
The derby runs weekly, with $200 a week split between five species of fish, for the largest caught.

A point of interest: Henshaw's present 770 surface acres seems large by today's standards, but in the boom year of 1942 the lake had 5700 surface acres and 25 miles of shoreline!

Facilities at the lake include: restaurant and tackle shop, boat and motor rentals, 17 rental cottages, campground and trailer park, and service station.

The lake is open 365 days a year, presently from 5:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Boat or cabin reservations can be made by telephoning (714) 782 3501.

Coat of Arms



Ham

Historiography

The Ham Coat of Arms illustrated left was drawn by an heraldic artist from information officially recorded in ancient heraldic archives. Documentation for the Ham Coat of Arms design can be found in Burke's General Armory. Heraldic artists of old developed their own unique language to describe an individual Coat of Arms. In their language, the Arms (shield) is as follows:

> "Parti: au 1 d'arg. a un jambon de > sa, en pal; au 2 d'or a une marmite > de gu, et une plante de lis de sin, > fleurie de trois pieces d'azur,
> sortant de la marmite."

When translated the blazon also describes the original colors of the Ham Arms as it appeared centuries ago.

Family mottos are believed to have originated as battle cries in medieval times. A Motto was not recorded with this Ham Coat of Arms.

Individual surnames originated for the purpose of more specific identification. The four primary sources for second names were: occupation, location, father's name, or personal characteristics. The surname appears to be locational in origin, and is believed to be associated with the English and Welsh, meaning, "meadow on a stream." The supplementary sheet included with this report is designed to give you more information to further your understanding of the origin of names. Different spellings of the same original surnames are a common occurence. Dictionaries of surnames indicate probable spelling variations of Ham to be Hamm and Hamn. Although bearers of the old and distinguished Ham name comprise a small fraction of the population there are a number who have established for it a significant place in history. They include: ROBERT de la HAMME,whose residence was recorded in Sussex County (1273), and JONATHAN HAM who was baptised in 1699 in St. James, Clarkenwell, which was all taken from the Bardsley's "Dictionary of English and Welsh Surnames". ANTHONY HAM (Hammond) (1668-1738) who was an English poet and pamphleteer, member of Parliament for Huntingdonshire in (1695) and Cambridge in (1698; 1700-1701). He published " A New Miscellany of Original Poems" and " The National Debt as it Stood at Michaelmas 1730, Stated and Explained". No genealogical representation is intended or implied by this report and it does not represent individual lineage or your family tree.

The service will do all possible to avoid undue delay of any rider, either at point of pickup or en route.

SLOWER RESPONSE AT PEAK HOURS

The Express service will have a slower response time than taxicab service, but efforts will be made to pick up passengers within 30 minutes of time of call. During rush hours service may take longer than 30 minutes, so plan ahead. Express drivers will assist in loading and unloading parcels and personal effects of passengers, when requested. However, Express vehicles will not wait for passengers more than 1½ minutes at any point, to wait longer would destroy the efficiency of the system.

The El Cajon Express is a City service operated under contract by a private company and subsidized with public funds. Remember, your city subsidizes your ride. Approximately two-thirds of the total cost of the ride is paid by the City; you pay the remaining one-third. If you have any complaints or suggestions for improved service, the City wants to hear from you. Write the City Manager's office, Leaving his job with Ryan Aircraft Corporation just before the end of World War II, Herbert Reed Ham started a new work career. For a few months Herbert worked as a labor for George F Casey. In about May or June 1945 he formed "Ham Construction Company" in which he took on plumbing jobs, and worked as a sub contractor in underground construction for George F Casey. Casey owned and operated a cesspool, septic tank and drain line business out of Fletcher Hills in the San Diego, California area. The "Second World War" began for the United States 08 December 1941 after the horrendous sneak attack of Japan on the Hawaii Islands on 07 December 1941. The war raged with Germany, Italy and Japan until 14 August 1945. Herbert's three younger brothers Fred, Willard and George were in the service during those years.

It was in May or June 1945 when Herb formed "Ham Construction Company," and his association and friendship with George Casey increased. As Ham Construction Company prospered Casey claimed Herb's hard work and honesty played off, and he continued to give his support and friendship as he had done in the past.

At the time of Herb's newly formed business his brother-in-law from his wife Lillie's side of the family, James (Jim) Darling came to work for him. Unfortunately, just a few months later on 16 September 1945 Jim past away.

Jim's untimely death left Herb without a work partner. Shortly thereafter, Herbert's sister's husband Preston Henson joined Herb in his labors, and the business provided well for the two hard worker.

In 1946 the service men start to return home looking for jobs to support themselves and their families. George Ham return first and went to work for Herb as an laborer. Soon after Bill returned home.

AGREEMENT

It is further understood and agreed:
The order on the reverse side hereof for the motor home, mobilehome, trailer or camper, hereinafter referred to as unit, is subject to the following terms and conditions which have been mutually agreed upon:

(1) Upon signature by authorized representative of the Seller, this order shall be conditionally accepted by Seller subject to Seller's approval of Purchaser's credit. In the event Purchaser's credit is not approved by Seller, Purchaser shall return any unit delivered by Seller pursuant to this agreement to Seller's place of business within 24 hours after receipt of Seller's notice of disapproval of Purchaser's credit and demand that said unit be returned. Purchaser agrees to reimburse Seller for all costs of repair of any damage sustained by said unit while in Purchaser's possession or control, excepting therefrom ordinary wear from normal usage. Upon return of said unit to Seller, Seller shall refund to Purchaser the amount of any cash deposit paid to Seller by Purchaser, deducting therefrom the cost of repair of damages to the unit delivered by Seller as set forth above; Seller shall also return to Purchaser any vehicle which may have been traded in on the order by Purchaser provided that such vehicle has not meanwhile been disposed of by Seller. In the event that such vehicle has been disposed of, Seller shall refund to Purchaser the wholesale cash value of the traded in vehicle.

(2) Verbal promises by the salesman are not valid. Any promises or understandings not herein specified in writing are hereby expressly waived.

(3) In the case of a new vehicle or chassis, the printed new vehicle warranty delivered to purchaser with such vehicle or chassis shall apply. If the vehicle sold is for commercial purposes there are no warranties, expressed or implied respecting the merchantability or fitness for purpose unless the same is endorsed hereon in writing or is contained in a separate written instrument. If the vehicle sold is to be used primarily for personal, family or household purposes, purchaser has not designated any particular use and has not relied on the Seller to select a vehicle suitable for a particular purpose. In the case of a used vehicle or chassis, the applicability of an existing manufacturer's or seller's warranty thereon, shall be determined solely by the terms of such warranty. All used units are sold "AS-IS" and without guarantee as to condition, year or model, unless specified in writing.

(4) The unit ordered, equipment and extras to be delivered, are to be delivered on a proposed delivery date subject to delays on account of fires, strikes, accidents, or inability to procure delivery from the factory or such other circumstances beyond Seller's control in which case delivery of such items shall be deemed extended correspondingly.

(5) Purchaser agrees to deliver the original bill of sale or title to any used vehicle traded in as partial payment along with delivery of such unit to the Dealer's premises, and warrants such unit to be free and clear of all liens and encumbrances except as otherwise noted herein. Purchaser further warrants that all taxes of every kind levied against such unit traded in have been fully paid. Should any governmental agency levy any claim or tax or demand against such unit, Seller may, at his option, pay the same and Purchaser agrees to pay Seller therefor immediately upon demand, or Seller may add such amount as an addition to the unpaid balance shown on the face hereof.

(6) Purchaser agrees that Dealer shall in no way be responsible for any changes in designs or models, even though they do not meet the approval of Purchaser. Purchaser agrees to accept the unit as produced by the manufacturer, and agrees to take delivery thereof within 24 hours after being notified that the unit is ready for delivery. No changes in the terms of this order after execution by the Purchaser can be made without written consent of the Seller.

(7) If used property is traded in and is registered or licensed in any other place other than the state in which this order is written, Purchaser agrees to immediately secure registration for such unit and to pay in addition to any other sums due hereunder all expenses and registration fees incidental thereto. In the event Seller assumes or pays any expenses in connection with such registration, Purchaser agrees to pay Seller the amount thereof upon demand or authorizes Seller at Seller's option to add the same to the unpaid balance due hereunder.

(8) It is expressly agreed that legal title to the unit shall not pass to the Purchaser until payment in full shall have been made herefor in cash. In the event the transaction referred to in this order is not a cash transaction, the Purchaser agrees, before or at the time of delivery, in accordance with the terms and conditions hereof to contract for payment and execute a security agreement therefor.

(9) Purchaser agrees to and authorizes the placing of insurance shown on the face of this order. Seller is authorized to inform the insurance company to furnish a loss payable clause to Seller or his assigns. It is understood that Purchaser is not covered by insurance until accepted by the insurance company, and Purchaser agrees to hold Seller harmless from any and all claims due to loss or damage prior to acceptance of insurance coverage by the insurance company.

(10) Purchaser guarantees that all statements made by him set forth in this order and in the reference statement concerning credit information signed at the time of this order are true and correct, and Seller may accept them as being true representations of existing fact.

(11) Purchaser acknowledges that present or any future movement of a mobile home exceeding 8 feet in width or 40 feet in length is subject to regulations currently issued by the Department of Public Works and that Seller shall not be responsible for movement of a mobile home in excess of such limits unless specifically contracted for herein. The fact that such movement must, in all cases, be made under special permit should the mobile home exceed length or width limitations does not release Purchaser of his obligation to Seller and Seller and Seller's assigns shall not be liable for any costs, damages, suits or claims based upon the size or width of the mobile home described herein should it exceed limitations now or hereafter in effect or imposed by any public body, city or state. Dealer shall not be required to make any plumbing or electrical connections or connection of natural gas or appliances where state or local ordinances require a licensed plumber or electrician to do so. All costs or charges for special connections or plumbing, electrical, or gas alterations shall be the responsibility of Purchaser.

(12) If delivery of the mobile home or unit is included in the purchase price, or if Dealer quotes a charge for delivery to customer's destination, the agreement to transport the unit is based upon customer's representation that travel is along acceptable all weather surfaced roads, open and accessible from the point of origin to the point of delivery. Purchaser assumes all responsibility for proper preparation of the property and to receive and locate the mobile home or unit. In the event delivery cannot be so made without employment of extra labor, or equipment, Purchaser agrees to forthwith pay such additional costs. Dealer does not guarantee placement of the unit unless proper concrete foundations have been prepared by Purchaser and Purchaser agrees to pay all labor and material costs to reset the mobile home or unit in the event of failure to provide approved or proper foundation. Dealer shall not be responsible for connection of sewer, water, electrical, or gas lines unless provided by a standard mobile home park or otherwise contracted for in this purchase order.

(13) In the event Purchaser fails to perform any terms or conditions of this order or fails to complete purchase once manufacture has been commenced. Purchaser agrees to reimburse Seller for all expenses or other losses, including reasonable attorney's fees occasioned by Purchaser's failure to complete said purchase or perform any other agreement or condition hereof, and hereby authorizes Seller to sell the mobile home or unit ordered pursuant to this agreement at public or private sale pursuant to the Uniform Commercial Code and deduct from the proceeds thereof a sum equal to the expenses and losses incurred or suffered by Seller by reason of Purchaser's failure to perform his obligations hereunder, and to pay the contract price called for herein.

(14) The terms and provisions of this purchase order shall inure to the benefit of Seller or any assignee of Seller.

FOR EVERY SISTER

Tomorrow,
I'll try to understand her,
Try to understand the excitement behind
Those piercing black eyes,
Try to understand her zeal for life,
Tireless energy, and love for others.
Tomorrow,
I'll sit down beside her and get to know
This sister of mine.
I'll get to know the skinny little girl
I grew up with and shared a bedroom with
For all our teen years.
Tomorrow,
We'll share secrets together,
We'll go for a long walk,
We"ll just sit together for hours and laugh.
Tomorrow,
I'll ask her about her boyfriends,
I'll ask her about her girlfriends.
I'll even ask what her favorite subject is in school
Today?
I'm too busy,
I have too much to do,
She's getting on my nerves.
Today,
She's borrow~~n~~ing my precious clothes, ruining them,
Today,
She's using up all the gas in my car.
Today,
She's asking stupid questions
I just don't feel like answering.
Today,
I'm too tired.
But tomorrow,
I'll tell her how much I love her,
I'll hug her and tell her she's pretty,
I'll tell her I'm glad I have a sister-tomorrow
Tomorrow
Has finally come and she is gone!

AGREEMENT

It is further understood and agreed:
The order on the reverse side hereof for the motor home, mobilehome) trailer or camper, hereinafter referred to as unit, is subject to the following terms and conditions which have been mutually agreed upon:

(1) Upon signature by authorized representative of the Seller, this order shall be conditionally accepted by Seller subject to Seller's approval of Purchaser's credit. In the event Purchaser's credit is not approved by Seller, Purchaser shall return any unit delivered by Seller pursuant to this agreement to Seller's place of business within 24 hours after receipt of Seller's notice of disapproval of Purchaser's credit and demand that said unit be returned. Purchaser agrees to reimburse Seller for all costs of repair of any damage sustained by said unit while in Purchaser's possession or control, excepting therefrom ordinary wear from normal usage. Upon return of said unit to Seller, Seller shall refund to Purchaser the amount of any cash deposit paid to Seller by Purchaser, deducting therefrom the cost of repair of damages to the unit delivered by Seller as set forth above; Seller shall also return to Purchaser any vehicle which may have been traded in on the order by Purchaser provided that such vehicle has not meanwhile been disposed of by Seller. In the event that such vehicle has been disposed of, Seller shall refund to Purchaser the wholesale cash value of the traded in vehicle.

(2) Verbal promises by the salesman are not valid. Any promises or understandings not herein specified in writing are hereby expressly waived.

(3) In the case of a new vehicle or chassis, the printed new vehicle warranty delivered to purchaser with such vehicle or chassis shall apply. If the vehicle sold is for commercial purposes there are no warranties, expressed or implied respecting the merchantability or fitness for purpose unless the same is endorsed hereon in writing or is contained in a separate written instrument. If the vehicle sold is to be used primarily for personal, family or household purposes, purchaser has not designated any particular use and has not relied on the Seller to select a vehicle suitable for a particular purpose. In the case of a used vehicle or chassis, the applicability of an existing manufacturer's or seller's warranty thereon, shall be determined solely by the terms of such warranty. All used units are sold "AS-IS" and without guarantee as to condition, year or model, unless specified in writing.

(4) The unit ordered, equipment and extras to be delivered, are to be delivered on a proposed delivery date subject to delays on account of fires, strikes, accidents, or inability to procure delivery from the factory or such other circumstances beyond Seller's control in which case delivery of such items shall be deemed extended correspondingly.

(5) Purchaser agrees to deliver the original bill of sale or title to any used vehicle traded in as partial payment along with delivery of such unit to the Dealer's premises, and warrants such unit to be free and clear of all liens and encumbrances except as otherwise noted herein. Purchaser further warrants that all taxes of every kind levied against such unit traded in have been fully paid. Should any governmental agency levy any claim or tax or demand against such unit, Seller may, at his option, pay the same and Purchaser agrees to pay Seller therefor immediately upon demand, or Seller may add such amount as an addition to the unpaid balance shown on the face hereof.

(6) Purchaser agrees that Dealer shall in no way be responsible for any changes in designs or models, even though they do not meet the approval of Purchaser. Purchaser agrees to accept the unit as produced by the manufacturer, and agrees to take delivery thereof within 24 hours after being notified that the unit is ready for delivery. No changes in the terms of this order after execution by the Purchaser can be made without written consent of the Seller.

(7) If used property is traded in and is registered or licensed in any other place other than the state in which this order is written, Purchaser agrees to immediately secure registration for such unit and to pay in addition to any other sums due hereunder all expenses and registration fees incidental thereto. In the event Seller assumes or pays any expenses in connection with such registration, Purchaser agrees to pay Seller the amount thereof upon demand or authorizes Seller at Seller's option to add the same to the unpaid balance due hereunder.

(8) It is expressly agreed that legal title to the unit shall not pass to the Purchaser until payment in full shall have been made herefor in cash. In the event the transaction referred to in this order is not a cash transaction, the Purchaser agrees, before or at the time of delivery, in accordance with the terms and conditions hereof to contract for payment and execute a security agreement therefor.

(9) Purchaser agrees to and authorizes the placing of insurance shown on the face of this order. Seller is authorized to inform the insurance company to furnish a loss payable clause to Seller or his assigns. It is understood that Purchaser is not covered by insurance until accepted by the insurance company, and Purchaser agrees to hold Seller harmless from any and all claims due to loss or damage prior to acceptance of insurance coverage by the insurance company.

(10) Purchaser guarantees that all statements made by him set forth in this order and in the reference statement concerning credit information signed at the time of this order are true and correct, and Seller may accept them as being true representations of existing fact.

(11) Purchaser acknowledges that present or any future movement of a mobile home exceeding 8 feet in width or 40 feet in length is subject to regulations currently issued by the Department of Public Works and that Seller shall not be responsible for movement of a mobile home in excess of such limits unless specifically contracted for herein. The fact that such movement must, in all cases, be made under special permit should the mobile home exceed length or width limitations does not release Purchaser of his obligation to Seller and Seller and Seller's assigns shall not be liable for any costs, damages, suits or claims based upon the size or width of the mobile home described herein should it exceed limitations now or hereafter in effect or imposed by any public body, city or state. Dealer shall not be required to make any plumbing or electrical connections or connection of natural gas or appliances where state or local ordinances require a licensed plumber or electrician to do so. All costs or charges for special connections or plumbing, electrical, or gas alterations shall be the responsibility of Purchaser.

(12) If delivery of the mobile home or unit is included in the purchase price, or if Dealer quotes a charge for delivery to customer's destination, the agreement to transport the unit is based upon customer's representation that travel is along acceptable all weather surfaced roads, open and accessible from the point of origin to the point of delivery. Purchaser assumes all responsibility for proper preparation of the property and to receive and locate the mobile home or unit. In the event delivery cannot be so made without employment of extra labor, or equipment, Purchaser agrees to forthwith pay such additional costs. Dealer does not guarantee placement of the unit unless proper concrete foundations have been prepared by Purchaser and Purchaser agrees to pay all labor and material costs to reset the mobile home or unit in the event of failure to provide approved or proper foundation. Dealer shall not be responsible for connection of sewer, water, electrical, or gas lines unless provided by a standard mobile home park or otherwise contracted for in this purchase order.

(13) In the event Purchaser fails to perform any terms or conditions of this order or fails to complete purchase once manufacture has been commenced. Purchaser agrees to reimburse Seller for all expenses or other losses, including reasonable attorney's fees occasioned by Purchaser's failure to complete said purchase or perform any other agreement or condition hereof, and hereby authorizes Seller to sell the mobile home or unit ordered pursuant to this agreement at public or private sale pursuant to the Uniform Commercial Code and deduct from the proceeds thereof a sum equal to the expenses and losses incurred or suffered by Seller by reason of Purchaser's failure to perform his obligations hereunder, and to pay the contract price called for herein.

(14) The terms and provisions of this purchase order shall inure to the benefit of Seller or any assignee of Seller.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS

COUNTY OF SAN DIEGO, CALIFORNIA

BEFORE THE MISSOURI WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION COMMISSION.

HERBERT HAM,
Employee,
vs.
GULF PIPE LINE COMPANY
OF PENNSYLVANIA,
Employer.

NUMBER E-78809.

PETITION AND REQUEST FOR A LUMP SUM SETTLEMENT.

Come now the parties hereto, Herbert Ham, Employee, in his own proper person, and Gulf Pipe Line Company of Pennsylvania, by Redmond S. Cole, its attorney, and show the Commission as follows:

That on the 7th day of November, 1930, Herbert Ham was engaged in helping construct a pipe line being erected by the Gulf Pipe Line Company of Pennsylvania and his work was within the provisions of the Missouri Workmen's Compensation Law; that on said date he sustained an accidental injury in the nature of a strain in the right sacro-iliac region.

That following said accidental injury, the Employer furnished Employee medical attention; that on the 2nd day of December, 1930, the Employee was placed in the Barnes Hospital, St. Louis, Missouri, under the care of Dr. H. S. Brookes, Jr., and he remained under the care and treatment of Dr. Brookes until the 19th day of December, 1930, at which time he left said Hospital and went to Clarendon, Texas, where he was subsequently treated by physicians of his own selection.

That the Employee filed within the time provided by law the said claim for compensation, and on the 5th day of February, 1932, the Missouri Workmen's Compensation Commission entered in this case its temporary or partial award directing the payment of compensation at the rate of $17.31 a week from the date of the accident, subject to a credit of $252.22 already paid, and providing for the payment of certain attorneys' fees; that the Employer has complied with said order and has paid in said case compensation for a period of 116 weeks, that is to say, from November 7, 1930, to January 23, 1933, in a total sum of $2,007.96, and in addition has advanced the Employee the sum of $200.00, expense money to pay his expenses in coming to St. Louis from his home in California for the purpose of this hearing.

Parties hereto further represent that this case was originally set for hearing on the 31st day of January, 1933, at which time the Employee was not able to be present and at which time this case was continued to March 3rd, 1933; that since said hearing of January 31st, 1933, claimant has been examined by a committee of three physicians in St. Louis, Missouri, to-wit: Dr. E. C. Funsch, Dr. J. Albert Key and Dr. H. S. Brookes, Jr.; that the parties hereto represent that the said physicians are duly licensed physicians under the laws of the State of Missouri and competent to testify in this case; that each of said physicians has presented and there is submitted with this petition a copy of a written report of the result of the examination made by said three physicians and the same is made a part of this petition.

The parties hereto represent that it is the contention of the said Herbert Ham that he is entitled to additional compensation and possibly to some hospital, physician or medical treatment; on the other hand it is the contention of the Employer that whatever disabilities said Herbert Ham may now have are due, at least in part, to an accidental injury to the Employee in the town of Pueblo, Colorado, several years prior to the alleged accident in the State of Missouri; and,

WHEREAS the parties hereto are desirous of settling and adjusting their differences, it has been agreed as follows: That subject to the approval of the Missouri Workmen's Compensation Commission, the Employer shall pay and the Employee shall receive in lump sum the amount of $ 3500.00, the same to be paid as ordered by the Commission; that such payment shall constitute a full, complete and final settlement of any and all claim for compensation which the said Herbert Ham now has or may hereafter have as the result of the injury of November 7th, 1930.

The parties hereto further represent that it is to the best interests of all parties concerned that they be permitted to settle this case in this fashion and state that the authority for settling the case is found in Section 3333 of the Revised Statutes of Missouri, 1929, under the Missouri Workmen's Compensation Law.

The parties further request the Commission that the Commission make an order fixing the attorneys' fees herein and how the same shall be paid.

Herbert Ham, of lawful age, after being first duly sworn, upon his oath says, that he is 29 years of age; that he is a resident of ElCajon, California; that he is the same party who signed the foregoing and attached petition and application for a lump sum settlement; that subsequent to the date of the injuries sustained by him on November 7th, 1930, he employed as his Counsel, Oliver A. Fabick of St. Louis, Missouri, and White and Yarborough of Dallas, Texas, and that said attorneys have represented him in said litigation and have advised him with reference to his rights under the Missouri Workmen's Compensation Law; affiant further says that he has been informed, believes and understands the law to be, that if the above and foregoing motion or petition be and the same is approved by the Missouri Workmen's Compensation Commission and an award paid as provided therein, that it will be in full of all claim for compensation which he has now or may have as a result of the accidental injury of November 7th, 1930, and that the said Missouri Workmen's Compensation Commission is to be without jurisdiction to grant him any further compensation for anion account of said accidental injury; affiant further says that he was examined by Drs. Key, Funsch and Brookes of St. Louis, Missouri, in the month of February, 1933, and that he has seen and read and knows the contents of the written reports made by said physicians relative to the result of the examination so made, but in so far as he is able to do, he is willing that the Commission, without the necessity of requiring the presence of said physicians, may accept the written reports of said physicians as their evidence in this case; affiant further says that he is willing that this case be set for hearing and disposed of to suit the convenience of the Commission. Further affiant sayeth not.

Herbert Ham Case

White & Yarborough,
Attorneys at Law,
409 North Texas Building,
Dallas, Texas.

Gentlemen:

We have computed compensation due Herbert Ham under the award of Missouri Workmen's Compensation Commission dated February 5th, 1932, as follows: He was injured November 7th, 1930, and worked up to and including November 8th, 1930, for which days he was paid wages. Consequently, his disability and compensation period began with November 9th, 1930. From November 9th, 1930, to February 13th, 1932, inclusive, is 462 days, or 66 weeks. Therefore, for this period he is entitled to 66 weeks compensation at $17.31 per week, a total of $1,142.46, less $252.23 already paid him, leaving a balance due of $890.23. The award provided that out of compensation due when the award was made, $400.00 should be paid as attorneys' fee. Up to and including February 6th, 1932, 65 weeks compensation was due. Therefore, we deducted the $400.00 for compensation due up to and including that date. From February 7th, 1932, to February 13th, 1932, 1 weeks compensation or $17.31 was due. From this we deducted $4.31 as attorneys' fee. Accordingly, from the total amount of compensation due Mr. Ham from November 9th, 1930, to February 13th, 1932, inclusive, $890.23, we have deducted a total of $404.31 attorneys' fee, leaving due him $485.92.

I am sending to you herewith, for delivery, our check in the sum of $485.92, payable to the order of Mr. Ham. Please deliver this check to him, and have him sign and date two copies of the enclosed receipt, sign it yourselves as witnesses, and return to us promptly two fully executed copies of the receipt. We shall file one copy with the Commission as evidence of compliance with its award and retain the other copy in our files.

I am sending to you herewith our check in the sum of $134.77, payable to your order, in payment of one third of the above mentioned $404.31 attorneys' fee as requested in your letter of February 13th, 1932.

I am sending today to Mr. O. A. Fabick, St. Louis, Missouri, our check for $269.54, payable to his order, representing two thirds of the $404.31 attorneys' fee, as requested in your letter of February 13, 1932.

We shall send you each two weeks a check payable to the order of Mr. Ham, as they become due, each representing 2 weeks compensation at $17.31 per week, less $4.31 per week attorneys' fee, until further notice. Each four weeks we shall send you and Mr. Fabick our checks in payment of attorneys' fee which we have deducted from compensation paid to Mr. Ham. I trust that this arrangement is satisfactory. Until we are advised differently, we shall pay one third of attorneys' fee to you, and two thirds to Mr. Fabick as directed by your letter of February 15th, 1932.

Yours very truly,

Gentlemen:

Replying to your letter of September 6th, 1932 will state as follows;

Will state that my present condition is not improved any, and seems to be more aggravating now than six months ago. My back is stiff and in moving or trying to straighten up the pain is more severe. I have sleepless nights more frequent now than six months ago, and the pains are more regular and cause me more un-rest at present that six month ago.

There is just very short intervals, about two to four hours aday that I am free of pains, and I have not performed any work at all, when I attempt to do any work, moving and bending causes the pains to become more aggravating.

Very Truly

Dear Mr. Yarborough:

I am asking you for the following information regarding my removal from Clarendon, Texas.

My parents are moving to Santiago, California immediately, and it is much warmer there in the winter than it is in Clarendon, and the Cold weather irritates my troubles more, and my compensation is not sufficient to support me and it is necessary for me to stay with my parents for the additional support and care.

The plan for leaving is by December 10th, 1932, and you will please consider the matter carefully and advise me.

Very Truly

December 28, 1931.

Herbert Ham, Age. 28 M.
Box 393, vs. Gulf Pipe Line Co.
Clarendon, Texas.

History:-

November 7th, 1930, at Steelville, Mo., had completed building a crib out of skids and while lifting one corner to put a rock under it his back gave way and he felt like something tore loose. Caught himself with his hands and layed on the crib until he was assisted out of the ditch. Rested for about an hour and then returned to work but did nothing other than to site the skids. The following day returned and helped the men line up the skids but did no actual work. States that during this time his back was continually troublesome and he went to the Doctor on the second day and did not return to work. Adhesive straps were applied to the back and he went to bed where he remained about one week. Was then sent to Barnes Hospital in St. Louis, where he was under the care of Dr. Brooks. Remained there for two weeks. After being discharged from the hospital went to his home in Clarendon, Texas, where he received treatment from Dr. Ellis for two months. Then went to Tulsa and was examined by Dr. Glass, after which he returned to Clarendon and has been under the care of Dr. Stricklin since then. States he now sees the Doctor on an average of three or four times a month.

Complaint:-

Claims that the lower part of the back has been continually sore since the accident and he does not believe there has been much improvement, it has remained about the same. Condition is aggravated by stooping, and lifting and he is unable to sit in one position for any length of time. Cannot straighten the back and when sitting the most comfortable position is leaning forward. In sleeping cannot lie on his back gets the most relief when lying on his right side. Turning awakens him, states there has been very few nights he has slept throughout the entire night and his sleep is disturbed on an average of two or three times. Movement of the right limb particularly the thigh aggravates the discomfort in the back. On level ground is able to walk three or four blocks without resting. Cannot get around very well on uneven ground. Change of weather aggravates the condition. Quite often he remains in bed all day, it is very seldom that he does not lie down during each day. Has attempted no work except some minor assistance around the house. Has been wearing a brace.

Since the accident has become nervous, is restless, irritable and has difficulty in concentrating. Has lost weight, his average weight was one hundred and fifty pounds before the accident.

Past-Personal History:-

In 1927 at Pueblo, Colo., a pulley fell and broke his left leg near the hip, was disabled around three months. Returned to work after a period of four months. The injury was confined to the leg and patient states he made a complete recovery and there was no involvement of the lower back. After this accident he did several types of manual labor.

Examination:-

Physical examination was made this date at the office, patient was a rather slender built white male, five feet eight and a half inches tall, weighing one hundred and twenty four pounds. He moved about with caution, in undressing and getting off and on the examining table he appeared to protect his back.

Head, ears, eyes, nose, mouth and neck did not reveal any evidence of injury. There was a small amount of infection about the gums, teeth were in fair condition.

Neck, chest, abdomen, upper and lower extremities revealed no unusual findings except a shortening of one-fourth inch in the left lower extremity. No limitation in the normal movements of the joints except the flexing of the thighs on the abdomen and patient complained this hurt his back.

Back.-Spinousprocesses were in good alighment. No scars, discolorations or deformities except a slight forward bending of the upper thoracic vertebrae or a beginning kyphosis, and also an abnormal tilting of the pelvis. The left crest of the ilium appeared to be higher than the right. There was a very marked muscle spasm of the spinous muscles in the lumbar region particularly on the right side. There was limitation in the movement of his back to either side, backward and forward. While there was some relaxation of the muscles on the left side those on the right retained their rigidity. With patient lying on his back and an attempt made to extend the legs with the thighs flexed on the abdomen he complained of considerable pain in the back most marked on the right side. There was a tenderness over the right sacro iliac and lumbo sacral joints.

Reflexes:-

No evidence of cranial nerve involvement. Normal reflexes were present and active. No pathological reflexes found. No evidence of any motor nerve involvement.

X-Rays:-

X-Ray examination of lumbar vertebrae, pelvis including the lumbo sacral and sacro iliac joints, the upper third of the femurs, revealed an old healed fracture of the upper third of left femur involving the neck, with a resulting shortening of the limb and a slight abnormal angulation of the neck and head of the femur. There was also a double fracture of the lower left side of pelvis both in the ramus of the publis and the ischium, this has produced some deformity in this area. With the deformity of the left side of pelvis there is some distortion of the sacro iliac joints, the one on the left side appears to show some separation while that on the right side appears to have some compression or impaction. The lumbar vertebrae do not reveal any fractures and there is no rotation or distortion, except for a small suggestion of a spur on the fourth and fifth lumbar vertebrae there was no evidence of arthritis.

Remarks:-

At the presemt time patient is suffering from an involvement of the right sacro iliac and lumbo sacral joints and is disabled and in need of treatment.

From his history and physical and x-ray findings, he sustained a rather extensive injury in 1927 of his pelvis and upper ~~right~~ part of left femur which produced a slight shortening of the left limb and a distortion of the pelvis. It is difficult to conceive that this man returned to work after a period of four months without any after effects.

In his injury in 1927 he undoubtedly did some damage to the right sacro iliac joint and it is quite probable that the lift he claims in 1930 could have aggravated or activated the right sacro iliac involvement so as to produce the condition the man now presents on physical examination.

If this man does not improve under conservative treatment an arthrodesis of the right sacro iliac joint would be indicated. I believe the involvement of the lumbo sacral joint is of less severity and secondary to the right sacro iliac joint.

Age. 28 M.
vs. Gulf Pipe Line Co.

History:-

November 7th, 1930, at Steelville, Mo., had completed building a crib out of skids and while lifting one corner to put a rock under it his back gave way and he felt like something tore loose. Caught himself with his hands and layed on the crib until he was assisted out of the ditch. Rested for about an hour and then returned to work but did nothing other than to site the skids. The following day returned and helped the men line up the skids but did no actual work. States that during this time his back was continually troublesome and he went to the Doctor on the second day and did not return to work. Adhesive straps were applied to the back and he went to bed where he remained about one week. Was then sent to Barnes Hospital in St. Louis, where he was under the care of Dr. Brooks. Remained there for two weeks. After being discharged from the hospital went to his home in Clarendon, Texas, where he received treatment from Dr. Ellis for two months. Then went to Tulsa and was examined by Dr. Glass, after which he returned to Clarendon and has been under the care od Dr. Stricklin since then. States he now sees the Doctor on an average of three or four times a month.

Complaint:-

Claims that the lower part of the back has been continually sore since the accident and he does not believe there has been much improvement, it has remained about the same. Condition is aggravated by stooping, and lifting and he is unable to sit in one position for any length of time. Cannot straighten the back and when sitting the most comfortable position is leaning forward. In sleeping cannot lie on his back, gets the most relief when lying on his right side. Turning awakens him, states there has been very few nights he has slept throughout the entire night and his sleep is disturbed on an average of two or three times. Movement of the right limb particularly the thigh aggravates the discomfort in the back. On level ground is able to walk three or four blocks without resting. Cannot get around very well on uneven ground. Change of weather aggravates the condition. Quite often he remains in bed all day, it is very seldom that he does not lie down during each day. Has attempted no work except some minor assistance around the house. Has been wearing a brace.

Since the accident has be~~en~~come nervous, is restless, irritable and has difficulty in concentrating. Has lost weight, his average weight was one hundred and fifty pounds before the accident.

Past-Personal History:-

In 1927 at Pueblo, Colo., a pulley fell and broke his left leg near the hip, was disabled around three months. Returned to work after a period of four months. The injury was confined to the leg and patient states he made a complete recovery and there was no involvement of the lower back. After this accident he did several types of manual labor.

Examination:-

Physical examination was made this date at the office, patient was a rather slender built white male, five feet eight and a half inches tall, weighing one hundred and twenty four pounds. He moved about with caution, in undressing and getting off and on the examining table he appeared to protect his back.

Head, ears, eyes, nose, mouth and neck did not reveal any evidence of injury. There was a small amount of infection about the gums, teeth were in fair condition,

Neck, chest, abdomen, upper and lower extremities revealed no unusual findings except a shortening of one-fourth inch in the left lower extremity. No limitation in the normal movements of the joints except the flexing of the thighs on the abdomen and patient complained this hurt his back.

Back.-Spinous processes were in good alighment. No scars, discolorations or deformities except a slight forward bending of the upper thoracic vertebrae or a beginning kyphosis, and also an abnormal tilting of the pelvis. The left crest of the ilium appeared to be higher than the right. There was a very marked muscle spasm of the spinous muscles in the lumbar region particularly on the right side. There was limitation in the movement of his back to either side, backward and forward. While there was some relaxation of the muscles of the left side those on the right retained their rigidity. With patient lying on his back and an attempt made to extend the legs with the thighs flexed on the abdomen he complained of considerable pain in the back most marked on the right side. There was tenderness over the right sacro iliac and lumbo sacral joints.

Reflexes.-

No evidence of cranial nerve involvement. Normal reflexes were present and active. No pathological reflexes found, No evidence of any motor nerve involvement.

X-rays:-

X-ray examination of lumbar vertebrae, pelvis including the lumbo sacral and sacro iliac joints, the upper third of the femurs, revealed an old healed fracture of the upper third of left femur involving the neck, with a resulting shortening of the limb and a slight abnormal angulation of the neck and head of the femur. There was also a double fracture of the lower left side of pelvis both in the ramus of the pubis and the ischium, this has produced some deformity in this area. With the deformity of the left side of pelvis there is some distortion of the sacro iliac joints, the one on the left side appears to show some separation while that on the right side appears to have some compression or impaction. The lumbar vertebrae do not reveal any fractures and there is no rotation or distortion, except for a small suggestion of a spur on the fourth and fifth lumbar vertebrae there was no evidence of arthritis.

Remarks:-

At the present time patient is suffering from an involvement of the right sacro iliac and lumbo sacral joints and is disabled and in need of treatment.

From his history and physical and x-ray findings, he sustained a rather extensive injury in 1927 of his pelvis and upper part of left femur which produced a slight shortening of the left limb and a distortion of the pelvis. In his injury in 1927 he undoubtedly did some damage to the right sacro iliac joint and it is quite probable that the lift he claims in 1930 could have aggravated or activated the right sacro iliac involvement so as to produce the condition the man now presents on physicial examination.

If this man does not improve under conservative treatment an arthrodesis of the right sacro iliac joint would be indicated. I believe the involvement of the lumbo sacral joint is of less severity and secondary to the right sacro iliac joint.

Dear Mr Yarborough:

I have been informed that you handle compensation cases with great results, and have been referred to you for some information & etc., in connection with my case.

My name is Herbert Ham
Box 393
Clarendon, Texas.

I was in the employ of Gulf Pipe Line Company, in the State of Missouri, and while in their employ doing duty, i received a strain in the Back, and will be further described in the copy of examining physician enclosed herewith.

My injury was received in Steelville, Missouri, and after my injury, I was paid an average of $17.31 per week compensation up to and including February 18, 1931, and the insurer is Gulf Pipe Line Company of Pennsylvania, and such company had me to go to Tulsa Oklahoma, for Examination and I was examined by their Doctor on February 17, 1931, and after he made his report to the Company, they notified me that compensation would cease, and I did not receive any copy of the doctor's report, but my compensation has ceased from Feb. 18, 1931.

I am not in any condition to work at this time and have not been in such shape, since receiving the above injury, and do not know when I will be able to work.

If you think you could do me any good and help me to get the compensation re-instated and continued, or get a final settlement, please let me know, also let me know on what basis you handle such cases, & etc.

Very Truly

Gentlemen:

Att. H J Yarborough

Received your letter of March 7, 1931 Inst. In reply will attempt to answer your inquiries.

I was employed in the State of Missouri, to work in Missouri.

Insofar as getting work, I am totally disabled from working at the kind of work I am accustomed to doing. I do not have education enough to handle a clerical or Office job. My back is stiff and have pains in lower regions of back, and my back is sore all time. I can not bend my back without pain, and in connection with treatment from a Doctor, I am not under the care of any physicaan, what little treatment I get, I do myself.

I have not ask the Company for a settlement, as they instructed me In Tulsa Oklahoma, that my compensation would stop on Feb. 18, 1931, and I referred the matter to the Workmen's Compensation Commission, Jefferson City, Missouri, and the corresponded with Gulf Pipe Line Company, and the Commission replied then to my letter and sent me a form to fill out, which I am enclosing herewith, their letter and form, and will ask that you return same to me after you have examined.

After my injury the Gulf Pipe Line Company, of Pennsylvania P O Box 2044, Tulsa Oklahoma, paid me all the compensation I received, and notified me to come to Tulsa for examination and while there instructed me that the compensation would cease, and I do not know what grounds they had for discontinuing as I did not see the examination report made by Dr. Fred A Glass, Medical Arts Bldg, Tulsa Oklahoma, who examined me while in Tulsa, Oklahoma.

I am also enclosing a letter instructing me to come to Tulsa Oklahoma, for examination.

If there is any further information, let me know. I am about 5 ft 8 in. weight 130 pounds, age 27.

Very Truly

To Whom It May Concern:

The following is a report of examination of accident case, Mr. Herbert Ham, age 28, married, has one child, two dependents, residence Clarendon, Texas. Employed by the Gulf Pipe Line Company of Pennsylvania.

Patient alleges that while on duty November 7th, 1930 between 2:00 and 3:00 P.M. raising corner of crib without assistance, the crib weighing at least 100 pounds, severely injured the lower part of his back and the back part of each hip. Patient stated he felt as though something had torn loose in his back. He stated at the time he injured his back he was lifting in a stooping position.

Following accident he says he reported to the foreman who advised him to stay on the job the remainder of the day but to do no lifting.

On November 9th he reported to the Company doctor at Steelville and his back was strapped with adhesive strips.

On December 2nd he reported to Doctor H. S. Brooks at St. Louis, Mo. and was sent to the Barnes Hospital where he remained a patient for about three weeks returning to his home at Clarendon, Texas where he had been under the care of his family physician.

Patient stated he has been unable to perform any kind of work since the above injury.

Past History: Had the usual childhood diseases. Sick with flu for four days in 1918. Had pneumonia 18 years ago. Had a fracture of left femur (Thigh bone) in 1924 or 1925 which disabled him for about three months. No other injuries or accidents. No surgical operations. No venereal diseases.

Physical Examination: Pains were elicited on pressure over the lower lumbar and upper sacral vertebrae and over the right sacro-iliac joint. It was observed that patient wears a sacro-iliac belt. Movements of lumbar spine were impaired in all directions; the maximum anterior motion was 30 degrees. Teeth, gums, tonsils and pharynx were negative. Present weight was 133 pounds; weight before the above injury was 146 to 148.

On examination it was observed that there was a marked spasm of the paravertebral muscles in both the right and left sacro-iliac regions; being more pronounced over the right side and just above the right sacro-iliac joint and over the right gluteal region with tenderness on pressure over these regions.

Prognosis: Since it has now been five months since the above injury and patient continuing to present a case of acute back sprain with a tearing and laceration of the muscles and ligaments in the region of the right sacro-iliac joint, it is my opinion patient has been rendered totally and permanently disabled for manual labor.

Yours very truly,

Dear Dr. Key:-

This will introduce Mr. Herbert Ham, of El Cajon, California, who has a case pending before the Missouri Workmen's Compensation Commission, on account of an injury to his back sustained on November 7, 1930, while working for the Gulf Pipe Line Company near Steelville, Missouri.

On February 5, 1932, the Commission made a temporary award, under which the Pipe Line Company has been paying Mr. Ham up to now. The Pipe Line Company wants a hearing as to Mr. Ham's present condition and Dr. Funsch is examining him for the Commission, Dr. H. S. Brookes for the Employer and you for Mr. Ham.

The case is set before the Commission on March 3rd at 1:00 P.M. The hearing will be held at 814 Pierce Building, at which time you can give your testimony.

Mr. Ham has never been able to work since the injury. He has a wife and child and has no other means of support. A copy of your report is to be made in triplicate, one for the Commission, one for the Empboyer and one for me.

As previously advised, you were recommended by Dr. Samuel E. Newman.

Very sincerely yours,

Mr. Herbert Ham,

Dear Mr. Ham:-

Under date of the 13th instant, I received the following letter from Mr. Redmond S. Cole, Attorney for the Pipe Line Company:

"Thanks for your letter of February 9th, giving me the citation of the case of Brown v. Corn Products Refining CO. 55 S.W. (2nd) page 706.

"I have been in the office but for a few hours since last I saw you, although I did arrange to carry on as we tentatively agreed upon at St. Louis. Within the next twelve hours, the Company will mail you check for $200.00. It is understood that Mr. Ham is to appear on March 3rd, to be examined by three physicians, one of our selection, one of your selection and the third, the Doctor who examined him for the Commission.

"I shall come to St. Louis at that time prepared to try to make an adjustment in lump sum settlement in this case. I am somewhat in the same predicament that you are in, in that I have no notion of what the man's present condition is. However, we will try to work out some settlement and if it cannot be done, we will be on hand and in a position to check the whole matter to the referee for whatever award the facts and circumstances call for.

"P.S. Our check for $200.00, compensation advanced Herbert Ham, is herewith enclosed."

I am herewith enclosing check for $200.00, which will be deducted from compensation.

I suggest that you be in St.Louis on the evening of Tuesday, February 28th, so that we will have plenty of time to have you examined by the three physicians. As indicated in Mr. Cole's letter, we will try to make a lump sum settlement. I suggest that when you come to St. Louis you go to the American Annex Hotel, which is at 6th and Market Streets, and select the cheapest room they have, so as to save expense. You will have to pay the doctor selected by us.

Very truly yours,

BEFORE THE MISSOURI WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION COMMISSION.

HERBERT HAM,
Employee,
vs.
GULF PIPE LINE COMPANY OF PENNSYLVANIA,
Employer.

NUMBER E-78809.

PETITION AND REQUEST FOR A LUMP SUM SETTLEMENT.

Come now the parties hereto, Herbert Ham, Employee, in his own proper person, and Gulf Pipe Line Company of Pennsylvania, by Redmond S. Cole, its attorney, and show the Commission as follows;

That on the 7th day of November, 1930, Herbert Ham was engaged in helping construct a pipe line being erected by the Gulf Pipe Line Company of Pennsylvania and his work was within the provisions of the Missouri Workmen's Compensation Law; that on said date he sustained an accidental injury in the nature of a strain in the right sacro-iliac region.

That following said accidental injury, the Employer furnished Employee medical attention; that on the 2nd day of December, 1930, the Employee was placed in the Barnes Hospital, St. Louis, Missouri, under the care of Dr. H. S. Brookes, Jr., and he remained under the care and treatment of Dr. Brookes until the 19th day of December, 1930, at which time he left said Hospital and went to Clarendon, Texas, where he was subsequently treated by physicians of his own selection.

That the Employee filed within the time provided by law the said claim for compensation, and on the 5th day of February, 1932, the Missouri Workmen's Compensation Commission entered in this case its temporary or partial award directing the payment of compensation at the rate of $17.21 a week from the date of the accident, subject to a credit of $252.22 already paid, and providing for the payment of certain attorneys' fees; that the Employer has complied with said order and has paid in said case compensation for a period of 116 weeks,

STATE OF MISSOURI.)
) SS.
CITY OF ST. LOUIS.)

Herbert Ham, of lawful age, after being first duly sworn, upon his oath says, that he is 29 years of age; that he is a resident of ElCajon, California; that he is the same party who signed the foregoing and attached petition and application for a lump sum settlement; that subsequent to the date of the injuries sustained by him on November 7th, 1930, he employed as his Counsel, Oliver A. Fabick of St. Louis, Missouri, and White and Yarborough of Dallas, Texas, and that said attorneys have represented him in said litigation and have advised him with reference to his rights under the Missouri Workmen's Compensation Law; affiant further says that he has been informed, believes and understands the law to be, that if the above and foregoing motion or petition be and the same is approved by the Missouri Workmen's Compensation Commission and an award paid as provided therein, that it will be in full of all claim for compensation which he has now or may have as a result of the accidental injury of November 7th, 1930, and that the said Missouri Workmen's Compensation Commission is to be without jurisdiction to grant him any further compensation for andon account of said accidental injury; affiant further says that he was examined by Drs. Key, Funsch and Brookes of St. Louis, Missouri, in the month of February, 1933, and that he has seen and read and knows the contents of the written reports made by said physicians relative to the result of the examination so made, but in so far as he is able to do, he is willing that the Commission, without the necessity of requiring the presence of said physicians, may accept the written reports of said physicians as their evidence in this case; affiant further says that he is willing that this case be set for hearing and disposed of to suit the convenience of the Commission. Further affiant sayeth not.

Herbert Ham

Subscribed and sworn to before me this ____ day of March, 1933.

Notary Public.

My commission expires

that is to say, from November 7, 1930, to January 23, 1933, in a total sum of $2,007.98, and in addition has advanced the Employee the sum of $200.00, expense money to pay his expenses in coming to St. Louis from his home in California for the purpose of this hearing.

Parties hereto further represent that this case was originally set for hearing on the 31st day of January, 1933, at which time the Employee was not able to be present and at which time this case was continued to March 3rd, 1933; that since said hearing of January 31st, 1933, claimant has been examined by a committee of three physicians in St. Louis, Missouri, to-wit: Dr. E. C. Funsch, Dr. J. Albert Key and Dr. H. S. Brookes, Jr.; that the parties hereto represent that the said physicians are duly licensed physicians under the laws of the State of Missouri and competent to testify in this case; that each of said physicians has presented and there is submitted with this petition a copy of a written report of the result of the examination made by said three physicians and the same is made a part of this petition.

The parties hereto represent that it is the contention of the said Herbert Ham that he is entitled to additional compensation and possibly to some hospital, physician or medical treatment; on the other hand it is the contention of the Employer that whatever disabilities said Herbert Ham may now have are due, at least in part, to an accidental injury to the Employee in the town of Pueblo, Colorado, several years prior to the alleged accident in the State of Missouri; and,

WHEREAS the parties hereto are desirous of settling and adjusting their differences, it has been agreed as follows: That subject to the approval of the Missouri Workmen's Compensation Commission, the Employer shall pay and the Employee shall receive in lump sum the amount of $ 3500.00, the same to be paid as ordered by the Commission; that such payment shall constitute a full, complete and final settlement of any and all claim for compensation which the said Herbert Ham now has or may hereafter have as the result of the injury of November 7th, 1930.

The parties hereto further represent that it is to the best interests of all parties concerned that they be permitted to settle this case in this fashion and state that the authority for settling the case is found in Section 3333 of the Revised Statutes of Missouri, 1929, under the Missouri Workmen's Compensation Law.

The parties further request the Commission that the Commission make an order fixing the attorneys' fees herein and how the same shall be paid.

Herbert Ham, Age. 28 M.
Box 393, vs. Gulf Pipe Line Co.
Clarendon, Texas.

History:-

November 7th, 1930, at Steelville, Mo., had completed building a crib out of skids and while lifting one corner to put a rock under it his back gave way and he felt like something tore loose. Caught himself with his hands and layed on the crib until he was assisted out of the ditch. Rested for about an hour and then returned to work but did nothing other than to site the skids. The following day returned and helped the men line up the skids but did no actual work. States that during this time his back was continually troublesome and he went to the Doctor on the second day and did not return to work. Adhesive straps were applied to the back and he went to bed where he remained about one week. Was then sent to Barnes Hospital in St. Louis, where he was under the care of Dr. Brooks. Remained there for two weeks. After being discharged from the hospital went to his home in Clarendon, Texas, where he received treatment from Dr. Ellis for two months. Then went to Tulsa and was examined by Dr. Glass, after which he returned to Clarendon and has been under the care of Dr. Stricklin since then. States he now sees the Doctor on an average of three or four times a month.

Complaint:-

Claims that the lower part of the back has been continually sore since the accident and he does not believe there has been much improvement, it has remained about the same. Condition is aggravated by stooping, and lifting and he is unable to sit in one position for any length of time. Cannot straighten the back and when sitting the most comfortable position is leaning forward. In sleeping cannot lie on his back gets the most relief when lying on his right side. Turning awakens him, states there has been very few nights he has slept throughout the entire night and his sleep is disturbed on an average of two or three times. Movement of the right limb particularly the thigh aggravates the discomfort in the back. On level ground is able to walk three or four blocks without resting. Cannot get around very well on uneven ground. Change of weather aggravates the condition. Quite often he remains in bed all day, it is very seldom that he does not lie down during each day. Has attempted no work except some minor assistance around the house. Has been wearing a brace.

Since the accident has become nervous, is restless, irritable and has difficulty in concentrating. Has lost weight, his average weight was one hundred and fifty pounds before the accident.

Past-Personal History:-

In 1927 at Pueblo, Colo., a pulley fell and broke his left leg near the hip, was disabled around three months. Returned to work after a period of four months. The injury was confined to the leg and patient states he made a complete recovery and there was no involvement of the lower back. After this accident he did several types of manual labor.

Examination:-

Physical examination was made this date at the office, patient was a rather slender built white male, five feet eight and a half inches tall, weighing one hundred and twenty four pounds. He moved about with caution, in undressing and getting off and on the examining table he appeared to protect his back.

Head, ears, eyes, nose, mouth and neck did not reveal any evidence of injury. There was a small amount of infection about the gums, teeth were in fair condition.

Neck, chest, abdomen, upper and lower extremities revealed no unusual findings except a shortening of one-fourth inch in the left lower extremity. No limitation in the normal movements of the joints except the flexing of the thighs on the abdomen and patient complained this hurt his back.

Back.-Spinousprocesses were in good alighment. No scars, discolorations or deformities except a slight forward bending of the upper thoracic vertebrae or a beginning kyphosis, and also an abnormal tilting of the pelvis. The left crest of the ilium appeared to be higher than the right. There was a very marked muscle spasm of the spinous muscles in the lumbar region particularly on the right side. There was limitation in the movement of his back to either side, backward and forward. While there was some relaxation of the muscles on the left side those on the right retained their rigidity. With patient lying on his back and an attempt made to extend the legs with the thighs flexed on the abdomen he complained of considerable pain in the back most marked on the right side. There was a tenderness over the right sacro iliac and lumbo sacral joints.

Reflexes:-

No evidence of cranial nerve involvement. Normal reflexes were present and active. No pathological reflexes found. No evidence of any motor nerve involvement.

X-Rays:-

X-Ray examination of lumbar vertebrae, pelvis including the lumbo sacral and sacro iliac joints, the upper third of the femurs, revealed an old healed fracture of the upper third of left femur involving the neck, with a resulting shortening of the limb and a slight abnormal angulation of the neck and head of the femur. There was also a double fracture of the lower left side of pelvis both in the ramus of the pubis and the ischium, this has produced some deformity in this area. With the deformity of the left side of pelvis there is some distortion of the sacro iliac joints, the one on the left side appears to show some separation while that on the right side appears to have some compression or impaction. The lumbar vertebrae do not reveal any fractures and there is no rotation or distortion, except for a small suggestion of a spur on the fourth and fifth lumbar vertebrae there was no evidence of arthritis.

Remarks:-

At the presemt time patient is suffering from an involvement of the right sacro iliac and lumbo sacral joints and is disabled and in need of treatment.

From his history and physical and x-ray findings, he sustained a rather extensive injury in 1927 of his pelvis and upper ~~right~~ part of left femur which produced a slight shortening of the left limb and a distortion of the pelvis. It is difficult to conceive that this man returned to work after a period of four months without any after effects.

In his injury in 1927 he undoubtedly did some damage to the right sacro iliac joint and it is quite probable that the lift he claims in 1930 could have aggravated or activated the right sacro iliac involvement so as to produce the condition the man now presents on physical examination.

If this man does not improve under conservative treatment an arthrodesis of the right sacro iliac joint would be indicated. I believe the involvement of the lumbo sacral joint is of less severity and secondary to the right sacro iliac joint.

Respectfully,

ECF/HM.

Dear Mr Yarborough:

I have been informed that you handle compensation cases with great results, and have been referred to you for some information & etc., in connection with my case.

My name is Herbert Ham
Box 393
Clarendon, Texas.

I was in the employ of Gulf Pipe Line Company, in the State of Missouri, and while in their employ doing duty, i received a strain in the Back, and will be further described in the copy of examining physician enclosed herewith.

My injury was received in Steelville, Missouri, and after my injury, I was paid an average of $17.31 per week compensation up to and including February 18, 1931, and the insurer is Gulf Pipe Line Company of Pennsylvania, and such company had me to go to Tulsa Oklahoma, for Examination and I was examined by their Doctor on February 17, 1931, and after he made his report to the Company, they notified me that compensation would cease, and I did not receive any copy of the doctor's report, but my compensation has ceased from Feb. 18, 1931.

I am not in any condition to work at this time and have not been in such shape, since receiving the above injury, and do not know when I will be able to work.

If you think you could do me any good and help me to get the compensation re-instated and continued, or get a final settlement, please let me know, also let me know on what basis you handle such cases, & etc.

Herbert Ham Case

White & Yarborough,
Attorneys at Law,
409 North Texas Building,
Dallas, Texas.

Gentlemen:

We have computed compensation due Herbert Ham under the award of Missouri Workmen's Compensation Commission dated February 5th, 1932, as follows: He was injured November 7th, 1930, and worked up to and including November 8th, 1930, for which days he was paid wages. Consequently, his disability and compensation period began with November 9th, 1930. From November 9th, 1930, to February 13th, 1932, inclusive, is 462 days, or 66 weeks. Therefore, for this period he is entitled to 66 weeks compensation at $17.31 per week, a total of $1,142.46, less $252.23 already paid him, leaving a balance due of $890.23. The award provided that out of compensation due when the award was made, $400.00 should be paid as attorneys' fee. Up to and including February 6th, 1932, 65 weeks compensation was due. Therefore, we deducted the $400.00 for compensation due up to and including that date. From February 7th, 1932, to February 13th, 1932, 1 weeks compensation or $17.31 was due. From this we deducted $4.31 as attorneys' fee. Accordingly, from the total amount of compensation due Mr. Ham from November 9th, 1930, to February 13th, 1932, inclusive, $890.23, we have deducted a total of $404.31 attorneys' fee, leaving due him $485.92.

I am sending to you herewith, for delivery, our check in the sum of $485.92, payable to the order of Mr. Ham. Please deliver this check to him, and have him sign and date two copies of the enclosed receipt, sign it yourselves as witnesses, and return to us promptly two fully executed copies of the receipt. We shall file one copy with the Commission as evidence of compliance with its award and retain the other copy in our files.

I am sending to you herewith our check in the sum of $134.77, payable to your order, in payment of one third of the above mentioned $404.31 attorneys' fee as requested in your letter of February 13th, 1932.

I am sending today to Mr. O. A. Fabick, St. Louis, Missouri, our check for $269.54, payable to his order, representing two thirds of the $404.31 attorneys' fee, as requested in your letter of February 13, 1932.

We shall send you each two weeks a check payable to the order of Mr. Ham, as they become due, each representing 2 weeks compensation at $17.31 per week, less $4.31 per week attorneys' fee, until further notice. Each four weeks we shall send you and Mr. Fabick our checks in payment of attorneys' fee which we have deducted from compensation paid to Mr. Ham. I trust that this arrangement is satisfactory. Until we are advised differently, we shall pay one third of attorneys' fee to you, and two thirds to Mr. Fabick as directed by your letter of February 13th, 1932.

Yours very truly,

Gentlemen:

Replying to your letter of September 6th, 1932 will state as follows;

Will state that my present condition is not improved any, and seems to be more aggravating now than six months ago. My back is stiff and in moving or trying to straighten up the pain is more severe. I have sleepless nights more frequent now than six months ago, and the pains are more regular and cause me more un-rest at present that six month ago.

There is just very short intervals, about two to four hours aday that I am free of pains, and I have not performed any work at all, when I attempt to do any work, moving and bending causes the pains to become more aggravating.

Very Truly

Herbert Ham

Dear Mr. Yarborough:

I am asking you for the following information regarding my removal from Clarendon, Texas.

My parents are moving to Santiago, California immediately, and it is much warmer there in the winter than it is in Clarendon, and the Cold weather irritates my troubles more, and my compensation is not sufficient to support me and it is necessary for me to stay with my parents for the additional support and care.

The plan for leaving is by December 10th, 1932, and you will please consider the matter carefully and advise me.

Dear Mr. Ham:-

Under date of the 13th instant, I received the following letter from Mr. Redmond S. Cole, Attorney for the Pipe Line Company:

"Thanks for your letter of February 9th, giving me the citation of the case of Brown v. Corn Products Refining CO. 55 S.W. (2nd) page 706.

"I have been in the office but for a few hours since last I saw you, although I did arrange to carry on as we tentatively agreed upon at St. Louis. Within the next twelve hours, the Company will mail you check for $200.00. It is understood that Mr. Ham is to appear on March 3rd, to be examined by three physicians, one of our selection, one of your selection and the third, the Doctor who examined him for the Commission.

"I shall come to St. Louis at that time prepared to try to make an adjustment in lump sum settlement in this case. I am somewhat in the same predicament that you are in, in that I have no notion of what the man's present condition is. However, we will try to work out some settlement and if it cannot be done, we will be on hand and in a position to check the whole matter to the referee for whatever award the facts and circumstances call for.

"P.S. Our check for $200.00, compensation advanced Herbert Ham, is herewith enclosed."

I am herewith enclosing check for $200.00, which will be deducted from compensation.

I suggest that you be in St.Louis on the evening of Tuesday, February 28th, so that we will have plenty of time to have you examined by the three physicians. As indicated in Mr. Cole's letter, we will try to make a lump sum settlement. I suggest that when you come to St. Louis you go to the American Annex Hotel, which is at 6th and Market Streets, and select the cheapest room they have, so as to save expense. You will have to pay the doctor selected by us.

Very truly yours,

HERBERT HAM,
Employee,
vs.
GULF PIPE LINE COMPANY
OF PENNSYLVANIA,
Employer.

NUMBER E-78609.

PETITION AND REQUEST FOR A LUMP SUM SETTLEMENT.

Come now the parties hereto, Herbert Ham, Employee, in his own proper person, and Gulf Pipe Line Company of Pennsylvania, by Redmond S. Cole, its attorney, and show the Commission as follows;

That on the 7th day of November, 1930, Herbert Ham was engaged in helping construct a pipe line being erected by the Gulf Pipe Line Company of Pennsylvania and his work was within the provisions of the Missouri Workmen's Compensation Law; that on said date he sustained an accidental injury in the nature of a strain in the right sacro-iliac region.

That following said accidental injury, the Employer furnished Employee medical attention; that on the 2nd day of December, 1930, the Employee was placed in the Barnes Hospital, St. Louis, Missouri, under the care of Dr. H. S. Brookes, Jr., and he remained under the care and treatment of Dr. Brookes until the 19th day of December, 1930, at which time he left said Hospital and went to Clarendon, Texas, where he was subsequently treated by physicians of his own selection.

That the Employee filed within the time provided by law the said claim for compensation, and on the 5th day of February, 1932, the Missouri Workmen's Compensation Commission entered in this case its temporary or partial award directing the payment of compensation at the rate of $17.31 a week from the date of the accident, subject to a credit of $252.22 already paid, and providing for the payment of certain attorneys' fees; that the Employer has complied with said order and has paid in said case compensation for a period of 116 weeks.

that is to say, from November 7, 1930, to January 23, 1933, in a total sum of $2,007.96, and in addition has advanced the Employee the sum of $200.00, expense money to pay his expenses in coming to St. Louis from his home in California for the purpose of this hearing.

Parties hereto further represent that this case was originally set for hearing on the 31st day of January, 1933, at which time the Employee was not able to be present and at which time this case was continued to March 3rd, 1933; that since said hearing of January 31st, 1933, claimant has been examined by a committee of three physicians in St. Louis, Missouri, to-wit: Dr. E. C. Funsch, Dr. J. Albert Key and Dr. H. S. Brookes, Jr.; that the parties hereto represent that the said physicians are duly licensed physicians under the laws of the State of Missouri and competent to testify in this case; that each of said physicians has presented and there is submitted with this petition a copy of a written report of the result of the examination made by said three physicians and the same is made a part of this petition.

The parties hereto represent that it is the contention of the said Herbert Ham that he is entitled to additional compensation and possibly to some hospital, physician or medical treatment; on the other hand it is the contention of the Employer that whatever disabilities said Herbert Ham may now have are due, at least in part, to an accidental injury to the Employee in the town of Pueblo, Colorado, several years prior to the alleged accident in the State of Missouri; and,

WHEREAS the parties hereto are desirous of settling and adjusting their differences, it has been agreed as follows: That subject to the approval of the Missouri Workmen's Compensation Commission, the Employer shall pay and the Employee shall receive in lump sum the amount of $ 3500.00, the same to be paid as ordered by the Commission; that such payment shall constitute a full, complete and final settlement of any and all claim for compensation which the said Herbert Ham now has or may hereafter have as the result of the injury of November 7th, 1930.

The parties hereto further represent that it is to the best

this case in this fashion and state that the authority for settling the case is found in Section 3333 of the Revised Statutes of Missouri, 1929, under the Missouri Workmen's Compensation Law.

The parties further request the Commission that the Commission make an order fixing the attorneys' fees herein and how the same shall be paid.

Herbert Ham,
Box 393,
Clarendon, Texas.

Age. 28 M.
vs. Gulf Pipe Line Co.

History:-

November 7th, 1930, at Steelville, Mo., had completed building a crib out of skids and while lifting one corner to put a rock under it his back gave way and he felt like something tore loose. Caught himself with his hands and layed on the crib until he was assisted out of the ditch. Rested for about an hour and then returned to work but did nothing other than to site the skids. The following day returned and helped the men line up the skids but did no actual work. States that during this time his back was continually troublesome and he went to the Doctor on the second day and did not return to work. Adhesive straps were applied to the back and he went to bed where he remained about one week. Was then sent to Barnes Hospital in St. Louis, where he was under the care of Dr. Brooks. Remained there for two weeks. After being discharged from the hospital went to his home in Clarendon, Texas, where he received treatment from Dr. Ellis for two months. Then went to Tulsa and was examined by Dr. Glass, after which he returned to Clarendon and has been under the care of Dr. Stricklin since then. States he now sees the Doctor on an average of three or four times a month.

Complaint:-

Claims that the lower part of the back has been continually sore since the accident and he does not believe there has been much improvement, it has remained about the same. Condition is aggravated by stooping, and lifting and he is unable to sit in one position for any length of time. Cannot straighten the back and when sitting the most comfortable position is leaning forward. In sleeping cannot lie on his back gets the most relief when lying on his right side. Turning awakens him, states there has been very few nights he has slept throughout the entire night and his sleep is disturbed on an average of two or three times. Movement of the right limb particularly the thigh aggravates the discomfort in the back. On level ground is able to walk three or four blocks without resting. Cannot get around very well on uneven ground. Change of weather aggravates the condition. Quite often he remains in bed all day, it is very seldom that he does not lie down during each day. Has attempted no work except some minor assistance around the house. Has been wearing a brace.

Since the accident has become nervous, is restless, irritable and has difficulty in concentrating. Has lost weight, his average weight was one hundred and fifty pounds before the accident.

Past-Personal History:-

In 1927 at Pueblo, Colo., a pulley fell and broke his left leg near the hip, was disabled around three months. Returned to work after a period of four months. The injury was confined to the leg and patient states he made a complete recovery and there was no involvement of the lower back. After this accident he did several types of manual labor.

Examination:-

Physical examination was made this date at the office, patient was a rather slender built white male, five feet eight and a half inches tall, weighing one hundred and twenty four pounds. He moved about with caution, in undressing and getting off and on the examining table he appeared to protect his back.

Head, ears, eyes, nose, mouth and neck did not reveal any evidence of injury. There was a small amount of infection about the gums, teeth were in fair condition.

Neck, chest, abdomen, upper and lower extremities revealed no unusual findings except a shortening of one-fourth inch in the left lower extremity. No limitation in the normal movements of the joints except the flexing of the thighs on the abdomen and patient complained this hurt his back.

Back.-Spinousprocesses were in good alighment. No scars, discolorations or deformities except a slight forward bending of the upper thoracic vertebrae or a beginning kyphosis, and also an abnormal tilting of the pelvis. The left crest of the ilium appeared to be higher than the right. There was a very marked muscle spasm of the spinous muscles in the lumbar region particularly on the right side. There was limitation in the movement of his back to either side, backward and forward. While there was some relaxation of the muscles on the left side those on the right retained their rigidity. With patient lying on his back and an attempt made to extend the legs with the thighs flexed on the abdomen he complained of considerable pain in the back most marked on the right side. There was a tenderness over the right sacro iliac and lumbo sacral joints.

Reflexes:-

No evidence of cranial nerve involvement. Normal reflexes were present and active. No pathological reflexes found. No evidence of any motor nerve involvement.

X-Rays:-

X-Ray examination of lumbar vertebrae, pelvis including the lumbo sacral and sacro iliac joints, the upper third of the femurs, revealed an old healed fracture of the upper third of left femur involving the neck, with a resulting shortening of the limb and a slight abnormal angulation of the neck and head of the femur. There was also a double fracture of the lower left side of pelvis both in the ramus of the pubiis and the ischium, this has produced some deformity in this area. With the deformity of the left side of pelvis there is some distortion of the sacro iliac joints, the one on the left side appears to show some separation there is no rotation or distortion, except for a small suggestion of a spur on the fourth and fifth lumbar vertebrae there was no evidence of arthritis.

Remarks:-

At the present time patient is suffering from an involvement of the right sacro iliac and lumbo sacral joints and is disabled and in need of treatment.

From his history and physical and x-ray findings, he sustained a rather extensive injury in 1927 of his pelvis and upper ~~right~~ part of left femur which produced a slight shortening of the left limb and a distortion of the pelvis. It is difficult to conceive that this man returned to work after a period of four months without any after effects.

In his injury in 1927 he undoubtedly did some damage to the right sacro iliac joint and it is quite probable that the lift he claims in 1930 could have aggravated or activated the right sacro iliac involvement so as to produce the condition the man now presents on physical examination.

If this man does not improve under conservative treatment an arthrodesis of the right sacro iliac joint would be indicated. I believe the involvement of the lumbo sacral joint is of less severity and secondary to the right sacro iliac joint.

Respectfully,

ECF/HM.

vs. Gulf Pipe Line Co.

History:-

November 7th, 1930, at Steelville, Mo., had completed building a crib out of skids and while lifting one corner to put a rock under it his back gave way and he felt like something tore loose. Caught himself with his hands and layed on the crib until he was assisted out of the ditch. Rested for about an hour and then returned to work but did nothing other than to sibe the skids. The following day returned and helped the men line up the skids but did no actual work. States that during this time his back was continually troublesome and he went to the Doctor on the second day and did not return to work. Adhesive straps were applied to the back and he went to bed where he remained about one week. Was then sent to Barnes Hospital in St. Louis, where he was under the care of Dr. Brooks. Remained there for two weeks. After being discharged from the hospital went to his home in Clarendon, Texas, where he received treatment from Dr. Ellis for two months. Then went to Tulsa and was examined by Dr. Glass, after which he returned to Clarendon and has been under the care cd Dr. Stricklin since then. States he now sees the Doctor on an average of three or four times a month.

Complaint:-

Claims that the lower part of the back has been continually sore since the accident and he does not believe there has been much improvement, it has remained about the same. Condition is aggravated by stooping, and lifting and he is unable to sit in one position for any length of time. Cannot straighten the back and when sitting the most comfortable position is leaning forward. In sleeping cannot lie on his back, gets the most relief when lying on his right side. Turning awakens him, states there has been very few nights he has slept throughout the entire night and his sleep is disturbed on an average of two or three times. Movement of the right limb particularly the thigh aggravates the discomfort in the back. On level ground is able to walk three or four blocks without resting. Cannot get around very well on uneven ground. Change of weather aggravates the condition. Quite often he remains in bed all day, it is very seldom that he does not lie down during each day. Has attempted no work except some minor assistance around the house. Has been wearing a brace.

Since the accident has ~~been~~ some nervous, is restless, irritable and has difficulty in concentrating. Has lost weight, his average weight was one hundred and fifty pounds before the accident.

Past-Personal History:-

In 1927 at Pueblo, Colo., a pulley fell and broke his left leg near the hip, was disabled around three months. Returned to work after a period of four months. The injury was confined to the leg and patient states he made a complete recovery and there was no involvement of the lower back. After this accident he did several types of manual labor.

Examination:-

Physical examination was made this date at the office, patient was a rather slender built white male, five feet eight and a half inches tall, weighing one hundred and twenty four pounds. He moved about with caution, in undressing and getting off and on the examining table he appeared to protect his back.

Head, ears, eyes, nose, mouth and neck did not reveal any evidence of injury. There was a small amount of infection about the gums, teeth were in fair condition,

Neck, chest, abdomen, upper and lower extremities revealed no unusual findings except a shortening of one-fourth inch in the left lower extremity. No limitation in the normal movements of the joints except the flexing of the thighs on the abdomen and patient complained this hurt his back.

Back.-Spinous processes were in good alighment. No scars, discolorations or deformities except a slight forward bending of the upper thoracic vertebrae or a beginning kyphosis, and also an abnormal tilting of the pelvis. The left crest of the ilium appeared to be higher than the right. There was a very marked muscle spasm of the spinous muscles in the lumbar region particularly on the right side. There was limitation in the movement of his back to either side, backward and forward. While there was some relaxation of the muscles of the left side those on the right retained their rigidity. With patient lying on his back and an attempt made to extend the legs with the thighs flexed on the abdomen he complained of considerable pain in the back most marked on the right side. There was tenderness over the right sacro iliac and lumbo sacral joints.

Reflexes.-

No evidence of cranial nerve involvement. Normal reflexes were present and active. No pathological reflexes found, No evidence of any motor nerve involvement.

X-rays:-

X-ray examination of lumbar vertebrae, pelvis including the lumbo sacral and sacro iliac joints, the upper third of the femurs, revealed an old healed fracture of the upper third of left femur involving the neck, with a resulting shortening of the limb and a slight abnormal angulation of the neck and head of the femur. There was also a double fracture of the lower left side of pelvis both in the ramus of the pubis and the ischium, this has produced some deformity in this area. With the deformity of the left side of pelvis there is some distortion of the sacro iliac joints, the one on the left side appears to show some separation while that on the right side appears to have some compression or impaction. The lumbar vertebrae do not reveal any fractures and there is no rotation or distortion, except for a small suggestion of a spur on the fourth and fifth lumbar vertebrae there was no evidence of arthritis.

Remarks:-

At the present time patient is suffering from an involvement of the right sacro iliac and lumbo sacral joints and is disabled and in need of treatment.

From his history and physical and x-ray findings, he sustained a rather extensive injury in 1927 af his pelvis and upper part of left femur which produced a slight shortening of the left limb and a distortion of the pelvis. It is difficult to conceive that this man returned to work after a period of four months without any after effects.

In his injury in 1927 he undoubtedly did some damage to the right sacro iliac joint and it is quite probable that the lift he claims in 1930 could have aggravated or activated the right sacro iliac involvement so as to produce the condition the man now presents on physicial examination.

If this man does not improve under conservative treatment an arthrodesis of the right sacro iliac joint would be indicated. I believe the involvement of the lumbo sacral joint is of less severity and secondary to the right sacro iliac joint.

Dear Mr Yarborough:

I have been informed that you handle compensation cases with great results, and have been referred to you for some information & etc., in connection with my case.

My name is Herbert Ham
Box 393
Clarendon, Texas.

I was in the employ of Gulf Pipe Line Company, in the State of Missouri, and while in their employ doing duty, i received a strain in the Back, and will be further described in the copy of examining physician enclosed herewith.

My injury was received in Steelville, Missouri, and after my injury, I was paid an average of $17.31 per week compensation up to and including February 18, 1931, and the insurer is Gulf Pipe Line Company of Pennsylvania, and such company had me to go to Tulsa Oklahoma, for Examination and I was examined by their Doctor on February 17, 1931, and after he made his report to the Company, they notified me that compensation would cease, and I did not receive any copy of the doctor's report, but my compensation has ceased from Feb. 18, 1931.

I am not in any condition to work at this time and have not been in such shape, since receiving the above injury, and do not know when I will be able to work.

If you think you could do me any good and help me to get the compensation re-instated and continued, or get a final settlement, please let me know, also let me know on what basis you handle such cases, & etc.

Very Truly

Gentlemen:

Att. H J Yarborough

Received your letter of March 7, 1931 Inst. In reply will attempt to answer your inquiries.

I was employed in the State of Missouri, to work in Missouri.

Insofar as getting work, I am totally disabled from working at the kind of work I am accustomed to doing. I do not have education enough to handle a clerical or Office job. My back is stiff and have pains in lower regions of back, and my back is sore all time. I can not bend my back without pain, and in connection with treatment from a Doctor, I am not under the care of any physician, what little treatment I get, I do myself.

I have not ask the Company for a settlement, as they instructed me In Tulsa Oklahoma, that my compensation would stop on Feb. 18, 1931, and I referred the matter to the Workmen's Compensation Commission, Jefferson City, Missouri, and the corresponded with Gulf Pipe Line Company, and the Commission replied then to my letter and sent me a form to fill out, which I am enclosing herewith, their letter and form, and will ask that you return same to me after you have examined.

After my injury the Gulf Pipe Line Company, of Pennsylvania P O Box 2044, Tulsa Oklahoma, paid me all the compensation I received, and notified me to come to Tulsa for examination and while there instructed me that the compensation would cease, and I do not know what grounds they had for discontinuing as I did not see the examination report made by Dr. Fred A Glass, Medical Arts Bldg, Tulsa Oklahoma, who examined me while in Tulsa, Oklahoma.

I am also enclosing a letter instructing me to come to Tulsa Oklahoma, for examination.

If there is any further information, let me know. I am about 5 ft 8 in. weight 130 pounds, age 27.

To Whom It May Concern:

The following is a report of examination of accident case, Mr. Herbert Ham, age 28, married, has one child, two dependents, residence Clarendon, Texas. Employed by the Gulf Pipe Line Company of Pennsylvania.

Patient alleges that while on duty November 7th, 1930 between 2:00 and 3:00 P.M. raising corner of crib without assistance, the crib weighing at least 100 pounds, severely injured the lower part of his back and the back part of each hip. Patient stated he felt as though something had torn loose in his back. He stated at the time he injured his back he was lifting in a stooping position.

Following accident he says he reported to the foreman who advised him to stay on the job the remainder of the day but to do no lifting.

On November 9th he reported to the Company doctor at Steelville and his back was strapped with adhesive strips.

On December 2nd he reported to Doctor H. S. Brooks at St. Louis, Mo. and was sent to the Barnes Hospital where he remained a patient for about three weeks returning to his home at Clarendon, Texas where he had been under the care of his family physician.

Patient stated he has been unable to perform any kind of work since the above injury.

Past History: Had the usual childhood diseases. Sick with flu for four days in 1918. Had pneumonia 18 years ago. Had a fracture of left femur (Thigh bone) in 1924 or 1925 which disabled him for about three months. No other injuries or accidents. No surgical operations. No venereal diseases.

Physical Examination: Pains were elicited on pressure over the lower lumbar and upper sacral vertebrae and over the right sacro-iliac joint. It was observed that patient wears a sacro-iliac belt. Movements of lumbar spine were impaired in all directions; the maximum anterior motion was 30 degrees. Teeth, gums, tonsils and pharynx were negative. Present weight was 133 pounds; weight before the above injury was 146 to 148.

On examination it was observed that there was a marked spasm of the paravertebral muscles in both the right and left sacro-iliac regions; being more pronounced over the right side and just above the right sacro-iliac joint and over the right gluteal region with tenderness on pressure over these regions.

Prognosis: Since it has now been five months since the above injury and patient continuing to present a case of acute back sprain with a tearing and laceration of the muscles and ligaments in the region of the right sacro-iliac joint, it is my opinion patient has been rendered totally and permanently disabled for manual labor.

Yours very truly,

Herbert Ham Case

White & Yarborough,
Attorneys at Law,
409 North Texas Building,
Dallas, Texas.

Gentlemen:

We have computed compensation due Herbert Ham under the award of Missouri Workmen's Compensation Commission dated February 5th, 1932, as follows: He was injured November 7th, 1930, and worked up to and including November 8th, 1930, for which days he was paid wages. Consequently, his disability and compensation period began with November 9th, 1930. From November 9th, 1930, to February 13th, 1932, inclusive, is 462 days, or 66 weeks. Therefore, for this period he is entitled to 66 weeks compensation at $17.31 per week, a total of $1,142.46, less $252.23 already paid him, leaving a balance due of $890.23. The award provided that out of compensation due when the award was made, $400.00 should be paid as attorneys' fee. Up to and including February 6th, 1932, 65 weeks compensation was due. Therefore, we deducted the $400.00 for compensation due up to and including that date. From February 7th, 1932, to February 13th, 1932, 1 weeks compensation or $17.31 was due. From this we deducted $4.31 as attorneys' fee. Accordingly, from the total amount of compensation due Mr. Ham from November 9th, 1930, to February 13th, 1932, inclusive, $890.23, we have deducted a total of $404.31 attorneys' fee, leaving due him $485.92.

I am sending to you herewith, for delivery, our check in the sum of $485.92, payable to the order of Mr. Ham. Please deliver this check to him, and have him sign and date two copies of the enclosed receipt, sign it yourselves as witnesses, and return to us promptly two fully executed copies of the receipt. We shall file one copy with the Commission as evidence of compliance with its award and retain the other copy in our files.

I am sending to you herewith our check in the sum of $134.77, payable to your order, in payment of one third of the above mentioned $404.31 attorneys' fee as requested in your letter of February 13th, 1932.

I am sending today to Mr. O. A. Fabick, St. Louis, Missouri, our check for $269.54, payable to his order, representing two thirds of the $404.31 attorneys' fee, as requested in your letter of February 13, 1932.

We shall send you each two weeks a check payable to the order of Mr. Ham, as they become due, each representing 2 weeks compensation at $17.31 per week, less $4.31 per week attorneys' fee, until further notice. Each four weeks we shall send you and Mr. Fabick our checks in payment of attorneys' fee which we have deducted from compensation paid to Mr. Ham. I trust that this arrangement is satisfactory. Until we are advised differently, we shall pay one third of attorneys' fee to you, and two thirds to Mr. Fabick as directed by your letter of February 13th, 1932.

Yours very truly,

Gentlemen:

Replying to your letter of September 6th, 1932 will state as follows;

Will state that my present condition is not improved any, and seems to be more aggravating now than six months ago. My back is stiff and in moving or trying to straighten up the pain is more severe. I have sleepless nights more frequent now than six months ago, and the pains are more regular and cause me more un-rest at present that six month ago.

There is just very short intervals, about two to four hours aday that I am free of pains, and I have not performed any work at all, when I attempt to do any work, moving and bending causes the pains to become more aggravating.

Very Truly

Dear Mr.Yarborough:

I am asking you for the following information regarding my removal from Clarendon, Texas.

My parents are moving to Santiago, California immediately, and it is much warmer there in the winter than it is in Clarendon, and the Cold weather irritates my troubles more, and my compensation is not sufficient to support me and it is necessary for me to stay with my parents for the additional support and care.

The plan for leaving is by December 10th, 1932, and you will please consider the matter carefully and advise me.

HERBERT HAM,
Employee,
vs.
GULF PIPE LINE COMPANY
OF PENNSYLVANIA,
Employer.

NUMBER E-78809.

PETITION AND REQUEST FOR A LUMP SUM SETTLEMENT.

Come now the parties hereto, Herbert Ham, Employee, in his own proper person, and Gulf Pipe Line Company of Pennsylvania, by Redmond S. Cole, its attorney, and show the Commission as follows:

That on the 7th day of November, 1930, Herbert Ham was engaged in helping construct a pipe line being erected by the Gulf Pipe Line Company of Pennsylvania and his work was within the provisions of the Missouri Workmen's Compensation Law; that on said date he sustained an accidental injury in the nature of a strain in the right sacro-iliac region.

That following said accidental injury, the Employer furnished Employee medical attention; that on the 2nd day of December, 1930, the Employee was placed in the Barnes Hospital, St. Louis, Missouri, under the care of Dr. H. S. Brookes, Jr., and he remained under the care and treatment of Dr. Brookes until the 19th day of December, 1930, at which time he left said Hospital and went to Clarendon, Texas, where he was subsequently treated by physicians of his own selection.

That the Employee filed within the time provided by law the said claim for compensation, and on the 5th day of February, 1932, the Missouri Workmen's Compensation Commission entered in this case its temporary or partial award directing the payment of compensation at the rate of $17.31 a week from the date of the accident, subject to a credit of $252.22 already paid, and providing for the payment of certain attorneys' fees; that the Employer has complied with said order and has paid in said case compensation for a period of 116 weeks, that is to say, from November 7, 1930, to January 28, 1933, in a total sum of $2,007.96, and in addition has advanced the Employee the sum of $200.00, expense money to pay his expenses in coming to St. Louis from his home in California for the purpose of this hearing.

Parties hereto further represent that this case was originally set for hearing on the 31st day of January, 1933, at which time the Employee was not able to be present and at which time this case was continued to March 3rd, 1933; that since said hearing of January 31st, 1933, claimant has been examined by a committee of three physicians in St. Louis, Missouri, to-wit: Dr. E. C. Funsch, Dr. J. Albert Key and Dr. H. S. Brookes, Jr.; that the parties hereto represent that the said physicians are duly licensed physicians under the laws of the State of Missouri and competent to testify in this case; that each of said physicians has presented and there is submitted with this petition a copy of a written report of the result of the examination made by said three physicians and the same is made a part of this petition.

The parties hereto represent that it is the contention of the said Herbert Ham that he is entitled to additional compensation and possibly to some hospital, physician or medical treatment; on the other hand it is the contention of the Employer that whatever disabilities said Herbert Ham may now have are due, at least in part, to an accidental injury to the Employee in the town of Pueblo, Colorado, several years prior to the alleged accident in the State of Missouri; and,

WHEREAS the parties hereto are desirous of settling and adjusting their differences, it has been agreed as follows: That subject to the approval of the Missouri Workmen's Compensation Commission, the Employer shall pay and the Employee shall receive in lump sum the amount of $ 3500.00, the same to be paid as ordered by the Commission; that such payment shall constitute a full, complete and final settlement of any and all claim for compensation which the said Herbert Ham now has or may hereafter have as the result of the injury of November 7th, 1930.

The parties hereto further represent that it is to the best

this case in this fashion and state that the authority for settling the case is found in Section 3333 of the Revised Statutes of Missouri, 1929, under the Missouri Workmen's Compensation Law.

The parties further request the Commission that the Commission make an order fixing the attorneys' fees herein and how the same shall be paid.

Dear Mr. Ham:-

Under date of the 13th instant, I received the following letter from Mr. Redmond S. Cole, Attorney for the Pipe Line Company:

"Thanks for your letter of February 9th, giving me the citation of the case of Brown v. Corn Products Refining CO. 55 S.W. (2nd) page 706.

"I have been in the office but for a few hours since last I saw you, although I did arrange to carry on as we tentatively agreed upon at St. Louis. Within the next twelve hours, the Company will mail you check for $200.00. It is understood that Mr. Ham is to appear on March 3rd, to be examined by three physicians, one of our selection, one of your selection and the third, the Doctor who examined him for the Commission.

"I shall come to St. Louis at that time prepared to try to make an adjustment in lump sum settlement in this case. I am somewhat in the same predicament that you are in, in that I have no notion of what the man's present condition is. However, we will try to work out some settlement and if it cannot be done, we will be on hand and in a position to check the whole matter to the referee for whatever award the facts and circumstances call for.

"P.S. Our check for $200.00, compensation advanced Herbert Ham, is herewith enclosed."

I am herewith enclosing check for $200.00, which will be deducted from compensation.

I suggest that you be in St.Louis on the evening of Tuesday, February 28th, so that we will have plenty of time to have you examined by the three physicians. As indicated in Mr. Cole's letter, we will try to make a lump sum settlement. I suggest that when you come to St. Louis you go to the American Annex Hotel, which is at 6th and Market Streets, and select the cheapest room they have, so as to save expense. You will have to pay the doctor selected by us.

Very truly yours,

Dear Dr. Key:-

Comanche National Grassland-Area Information

The Comanche National Grassland includes over 440, 000 acres in southeastern Colorado. On the Comanche National Grassland, you can explore southeastern Colorado's rich history. The Grassland has many stories to tell, from dinosaurs roaming the shoreline of a vast lake 150 million years ago, to Mexican and American traders traveling the Santa Fe Trail 150 years ago.

Natural Beauty

The Grassland is a place of unequaled sunsets, golden prairies, fragrant juniper canyonlands, and extraordinary wildlife viewing. Rare species such as the Lesser Prairie Chicken, the Golden Eagle, and the Swift Fox make the Comanche their home. A wide variety of other animals, including pronghorn, coyotes, hawks, burrowing owls, wild turkeys, badgers, prairie dogs, turtles, roadrunners and collared lizards also live here. Visit our resident critters on the Comanche National Grassland.

Jurassic Tracks

Imagine what the landscape looked like 150 million years ago during the Jurassic period. In southeastern Colorado you would have been surrounded by a tropical forest, complete with dinosaurs like apatosaurus and allosaurus.

Today, you can see evidence of the dinosaurs on the Comanche. These Jurassic creatures walked along the shore of a shallow lake, leaving behind their footprints in the mud. Today, these footprints form one of the largest documented dinosaur trackways in North America, with over 1300 visible tracks. Come and explore these creatures of the past on the Comanche National Grassland.

Ancient Rock Art

Now, imagine this area 1,500 years ago. You would have seen ancient peoples creating rock art on the canyon walls.

Rock art, images pecked or painted onto rock surfaces, held great significance for its creators. The oral traditions of many Native American groups tell of the spiritual power of the rock's surface. Rock art images may have been created to ensure a successful hunt or a year of plentiful food. Think about the lives of those ancient artists when you visit the canyonlands of the Comanche.

The Santa Fe Trail

If you visited southeastern Colorado between 1821 and 1880 you could have traveled the Santa Fe Trail, bringing goods or military supplies to cities and towns along the Trail. Imagine the long stretches of rugged trail, your water supply running out, your food rations consisting of nothing but flour, bacon, sugar, and salt. You can still travel sections of the Santa Fe Trail by foot or horseback. Journey back to the days of covered wagons on the Comanche National Grassland.

Homesteads

If you were a settler in southeastern Colorado during the 1870s and 1880s your family had to be self-sufficient to survive. You grew much of your own food, obtained meat by hunting and stock raising, and carried water to your home in buckets from the closest creek or spring. The effort of the entire family was essential for daily survival.

The Comanche National Grassland is home to many abandoned homesteads. Imagine these crumbling structures as living homes with the sounds of family echoing through them.

Please protect your lands.

Rock art, stone tools, charred bones, and rubble from dwellings provide evidence that people thrived on the Comanche National Grassland for thousands of years. Each relic of the past holds a clue that archaeologists use to reconstruct life here long ago. These cultural resources are ancient, fragile, and irreplaceable. If destroyed or removed, the information they reveal is lost forever. And so is the legacy that belongs to us all.

Comanche National Grassland is a National Grassland located in southeastern Colorado, United States. It is the sister grassland of Cimarron National Grassland and contains both prairie grasslands and canyons. It is separated into two sections, each operated by a local ranger district, one of which is in Springfield and the other of which is in La Junta. In Picket Wire Canyon, within the national grassland, lies one of the longest dinosaur track-ways in the world in the Morrison Formation. The grassland is administered by the Forest Service together with the Pike and San Isabel National Forests, and the Cimarron National Grassland, from common headquarters located in Pueblo, Colorado.

United States National Grassland

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia
(Redirected from National Grassland)

United States National Grasslands are protected areas of the United States. National Grasslands are designated by the Secretary of Agriculture and are permanently held by the Department of Agriculture. National Grasslands are authorized by Title III of the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act. For administrative purposes, they are essentially identical to U.S. National Forests, except that grasslands are areas primarily consisting of prairie. Like National Forests, National Grasslands may be open for hunting, grazing, mineral extraction, recreation and other uses. Various National Grasslands are typically administered in conjunction with nearby National Forests. The three National Grasslands in North Dakota, together with one in northwestern South Dakota, are administered jointly as the Dakota Prairie Grasslands. All but three of the National Grasslands are on or at the edge of the Great Plains. The remaining three are in southeastern Idaho, northeastern California, and central Oregon. National Grasslands are generally much smaller than National Forests. Whereas a typical National Forest would be about 1,000,000 acres (4,000 km^2), a typical Grassland would only be about 100,000 acres (400 km^2). The largest National Grassland, the Little Missouri National Grassland in North Dakota, covers 1,033,271 acres (4,181 km^2), which is approximately the median size of a National Forest. As of 30 September 2007, the total area of all 20 National Grasslands was 3,843,037 acres (15,552 km^2). [1]

Administering the National Forests of Colorado:
An Assessment of the Architectural and Cultural Significance of Historical Administrative Properties

INVENTORY AND RESULTS OF EVALUATION

Pike and San Isabel National Forests and Comanche National Grassland

During the late 19th century there was a steady demand for lumber, logs for construction, wood for fuel, mining timbers, and railroad ties in central Colorado. Cattle grazing was a major industry, especially along the South Platte, in South Park and Black Mountain. Cattle from Texas were grazed in South Park during the summer. Overgrazing conditions contributed to the establishment of the South Platte Forest Reserve in 1892.

The San Isabel Forest Reserve was established about three months after the Pikes Peak Timber Land Reserve in 1902. Both were designated National Forests five years later. The Pike was combined with the Plum Creek Timber Land and the South Platte Forest Reserve. By 1910 the San Isabel absorbed the Wet Mountain and the Las Animas National Forests. Headquarters for the San Isabel was at Westcliffe until it was moved to Pueblo in 1922.

In 1919 San Isabel became the first forest to have a narrative recreation plan, authored by Arthur Carhart. The objective was to organize the area as an example of recreational services overseen by the Service. He conceptualized his planning to include elements of sanitation, transportation, wildlife management and fire protection. The Pike and San Isabel were administratively combined in 1973.

Between 1938 and 1954 the U.S. Soil Conservation Service administered L-U Lands (land utilization) in the plains as a grazing and water conservation effort stemming from the dust bowl days. An overall study of these properties in 1953 resulted in the Rocky Mountain Region of the Forest Service assuming management of these lands. In June of 1960 National Grasslands became an integral part of the National Forest system. Comanche National Grassland in southeastern Colorado and Cimarron National Grassland in southwest Kansas became districts of the San Isabel National Forest (Hinton 1988; Reini 1931; Horgen 1923).

Tables 12, 13, and 14 list administrative sites evaluated in these Forests and the National Grassland and Figures 77 and 78 show the relative location of these sites.

Statement of Significance. The log barn at site 5PA576 was officially declared individually eligible in 1980. The ranch complex was declared ineligible but has been re-evaluated under criterion G. It is recommended that the site and its buildings are significant under criterion G for their association with the Region 2 Mule Packstring, a modern symbol of the Forest Service's management of its resources, including wilderness areas.

This site was used during the Depression to supply trees for the re-forestation of the Rocky Mountains and the reclamation of the windblown agricultural Midwestern plains. Its remaining buildings were constructed by the CCC. Their subsequent use by Hot Shot fire fighting crews and Environmental Education Center continues the site's association with the development and administration of the National Forests in Colorado.

Statement of Significance. It is recommended that site 5EP995 is not significant under criteria A or C. Although the garage is still recognizable as a USFS administration building, it has undergone major renovations. All vehicular doors that identify the garage/shop function have been removed, and the interior has been gutted. The structure has lost its integrity of design and materials. Three similar garages, all more intact, remain in Colorado.

Statement of Significance. It is recommended that site 5CR249 is not significant under criteria A or C. The site does not retain several elements typical of ranger stations, such as fencing and a dwelling. It has lost integrity of design and feeling. The remaining barn is not particularly representative of pre-CCC era USFS design or CCC-era construction. Many better examples of barns, CCC construction, and ranger stations exist in Colorado.

Statement of Significance. It is recommended that site 5PA70 is significant under criteria A and C. This site has been associated with the development and administration of the San Isabel National Forest since 1911. Of the four fully intact Pioneer and pre-CCC era USFS constructed Ranger Stations in Colorado, this is one of the two with the most amount of physical integrity remaining. The site is also the oldest extant administrative complex on the San Isabel National Forest.

Its use by the Forest Service as a work center and horse pasture was not significant to the development and administration of the San Isabel National Forest. The Bungalow Style buildings are not distinctive in their type, period, or method of construction, and they have lost integrity of association and design.

The building is an excellent example of combination log and frame construction. The various additions are themselves historic and document a pattern of use and reuse typical in Colorado mountain architecture.

Statement of Significance. It is recommended that site 5BA549 is significant under criterion A. This site was settled by homesteading ranchers. It was expanded by the Soil Conservation Service during the Depression as headquarters for the reclamation of the overgrazed plains. This reclamation project signified a new era in land management in Colorado. The site's present use by the Forest Service as a work center continues to represent federal reclamation efforts on the plains.

Early life

Duchess Isabella of Burgundy, the mother of Charles the Bold, was through her blood-ties and her perception of Burgundian interests pro-English. As a granddaughter of John of Gaunt, she was consequently sympathetic to the House of Lancaster. She believed that Burgundian trade, from which the Duchy drew its vast wealth, depended upon friendly relations with England. For this reason she was prepared to favour any English faction which was willing to favour Burgundy. By 1454, she favoured the House of York, headed by Margaret's father, Richard, 3rd Duke of York. Although the King of England, Henry VI, was the head of the House of Lancaster, his wife, Margaret of Anjou, was a niece of Burgundy's bitter enemy, Charles VII of France, and was herself an enemy of the Burgundians; the Duke of York, by contrast, shared Burgundy's enmity towards the French, and preferred the Burgundians. Because of this, when the Duke of York came to power in 1453–54, during Henry VI's first period of insanity, negotiations were made between himself and Isabella for a marriage between Charles the Bold, then Count of Charolais, and one of York's unmarried daughters, of whom the 8-year old Margaret was the youngest. The negotiations petered out, however, due to power struggles in England, and the preference of Charles' father, Philip the Good, for a French alliance. Philip had Charles betrothed to Isabella of Bourbon, the daughter of Charles I, Duke of Bourbon, and Agnes of Burgundy, in late March 1454, and the pair were married on 31 October 1454.

Margaret, being a useful bargaining tool to her family, was still unmarried at age 20, when Isabella of Bourbon died in September 1465. She had borne Charles only a daughter, Mary, which made it an imperative for him to remarry and father a son. The situation had changed since 1454: Charles was now highly respected by his father, who had in his old age entrusted the rule of Burgundy to his son; Charles was pro-English, and wished to make an English marriage and alliance against the French. For her own part, Margaret's family were far more powerful and secure than they had been in 1454: her father had been killed at the Battle of Wakefield on 30 December 1460, but her brother was now Edward IV, opposed ineffectively only by Margaret of Anjou and her son, Edward of Westminster; this made Margaret a far more valuable bride than she had been as the mere daughter of a Duke. Because of this, Charles sent his close advisor, Guillaume de Clugny, to London weeks after Isabella's death, to propose to Edward IV a marriage between Charles and Margaret. Edward responded warmly, and in the Spring of 1466 sent his brother-in-law, Lord Scales, to Burgundy, where Scales made a formal offer of Margaret's hand in marriage to Charles, and put forward Edward's own proposal of a reciprocal marriage between Charles' daughter Mary and Edward's brother, George, 1st Duke of Clarence.

Marriage

Duchess Isabella of Burgundy, the mother of Charles the Bold, was through her blood-ties and her perception of Burgundian interests pro-English. As a granddaughter of John of Gaunt, she was consequently sympathetic to the House of Lancaster. She believed that Burgundian trade, from which the Duchy drew its vast wealth, depended upon friendly relations with England. For this reason she was prepared to favour any English faction which was willing to favour Burgundy. By 1454, she favoured the House of York, headed by Margaret's father, Richard, 3rd Duke of York. Although the King of England, Henry VI, was the head of the House of Lancaster, his wife, Margaret of Anjou, was a niece of Burgundy's bitter enemy, Charles VII of France, and was herself an enemy of the Burgundians; the Duke of York, by contrast, shared Burgundy's enmity towards the French, and preferred the Burgundians. Because of this, when the Duke of York came to power in 1453–54, during Henry VI's first period of insanity, negotiations were made between himself and Isabella for a marriage between Charles the Bold, then Count of Charolais, and one of York's unmarried daughters, of whom the 8-year old Margaret was the youngest. The negotiations petered out, however, due to power struggles in England, and the preference of Charles' father, Philip the Good, for a French alliance. Philip had Charles betrothed to Isabella of Bourbon, the daughter of Charles I, Duke of Bourbon, and Agnes of Burgundy, in late March 1454, and the pair were married on 31 October 1454.

Margaret, being a useful bargaining tool to her family, was still unmarried at age 20, when Isabella of Bourbon died in September 1465. She had borne Charles only a daughter, Mary, which made it an imperative for him to remarry and father a son. The situation had changed since 1454: Charles was now highly respected by his father, who had in his old age entrusted the rule of Burgundy to his son; Charles was pro-English, and wished to make an English marriage and alliance against the French. For her own part, Margaret's family were far more powerful and secure than they had been in 1454: her father had been killed at the Battle of Wakefield on 30 December 1460, but her brother was now Edward IV, opposed ineffectively only by Margaret of Anjou and her son, Edward of Westminster; this made Margaret a far more valuable bride than she had been as the mere daughter of a Duke. Because of this, Charles sent his close advisor, Guillaume de Clugny, to London weeks after Isabella's death, to propose to Edward IV a marriage between Charles and Margaret. Edward responded warmly, and in the Spring of 1466 sent his brother-in-law, Lord Scales, to Burgundy, where Scales made a formal offer of Margaret's hand in marriage to Charles, and put forward Edward's own proposal of a reciprocal marriage between Charles' daughter Mary and Edward's brother, George, 1st Duke of Clarence.

Marriage

The marriage did not take place immediately, however. Continued talks were required, particularly since Charles was unwilling to marry his only child and potential heiress to Clarence, and these talks were undertaken by Anthony, Grand Bastard of Burgundy, Charles' half-brother. But added problems were introduced by the French: Louis XI did not want an alliance between Burgundy and England, his two greatest enemies. Louis accordingly tried to break the two apart, by offering the hand of his elder daughter, Anne, to Charles, that of his younger daughter, Joan, to Edward's youngest brother, Richard, Duke of Gloucester, and that of his brother-in-law, Philip of Bresse, to Margaret. Edward showed interest in the latter two propositions, offending Charles the Bold, and delaying the Anglo-Burgundian relations.

Instead, in 1466, Margaret was betrothed to Peter, Constable of Portugal, whom the rebellious Catalans had invited to become their King. Peter was himself a nephew of Duchess Isabella of Burgundy, and the betrothal thus signified an attempt to placate Burgundy. It was not to be, however; worn out by illness, disappointments, sorrow and overwork, Peter died on 29 June 1466, leaving Margaret available once more.

By 1467, the situation had changed again. Philip the Good had died, and Charles the Bold had become Duke of Burgundy. Richard Neville, Earl of Warwick, had turned against Edward IV, and was plotting against him with French support. Edward in such circumstances needed the support of Charles, and provided no further obstacles to the marriage negotiations, formally agreeing to it in October 1467. Negotiations between the Duke's mother, Isabella, and the King of England's in-laws, Lords Scales and Rivers, then proceeded between December 1467 and June 1468. During this time, Louis XI did all he could to prevent the marriage, demanding that the Pope refuse to give a dispensation for the marriage (the pair were cousins in the fourth degree), promising trade favours to the English, undermining Edward's credit with the international bankers to prevent him being able to pay for Margaret's dowry, encouraging a Lancastrian invasion of Wales, and slandering Margaret, claiming that she was not a virgin and had borne a bastard son. He was ignored, however, a dispensation was secured after Burgundian bribes secured Papal acquiescence, and a complex agreement was drawn up between England and Burgundy, covering mutual defence, trade, currency exchange, fishing rights and freedom of travel, all based on the marriage between the Duke and Margaret. By the terms of the marriage contract, Margaret retained her rights to the English throne, and her dowry was promised to Burgundy even if she died within the first year (often, the dowry would return to the bride's family under such circumstances). For his own part, Charles dowered Margaret with the cities of Mechelen, Oudenaarde and Dendermonde.

The marriage contract was completed in February 1468, and signed by Edward IV in March. The Papal dispensation arrived in late May, and preparations to send Margaret to Burgundy began. There was little enthusiasm for it outside Burgundy - the French Edward showed interest in the latter two propositions, offending Charles the Bold, and delaying the Anglo-Burgundian relations.

Instead, in 1466, Margaret was betrothed to Peter, Constable of Portugal, whom the rebellious Catalans had invited to become their King. Peter was himself a nephew of Duchess Isabella of Burgundy, and the betrothal thus signified an attempt to placate Burgundy. It was not to be, however; worn out by illness, disappointments, sorrow and overwork, Peter died on 29 June 1466, leaving Margaret available once more.

By 1467, the situation had changed again. Philip the Good had died, and Charles the Bold had become Duke of Burgundy. Richard Neville, Earl of Warwick, had turned against Edward IV, and was plotting against him with French support. Edward in such circumstances needed the support of Charles, and provided no further obstacles to the marriage negotiations, formally agreeing to it in October 1467. Negotiations between the Duke's mother, Isabella, and the King of England's in-laws, Lords Scales and Rivers, then proceeded between December 1467 and June 1468. During this time, Louis XI did all he could to prevent the marriage, demanding that the Pope refuse to give a dispensation for the marriage (the pair were cousins in the fourth degree), promising trade favours to the English, undermining Edward's credit with the international bankers to prevent him being able to pay for Margaret's dowry, encouraging a Lancastrian invasion of Wales, and slandering Margaret, claiming that she was not a virgin and had borne a bastard son. He was ignored, however, a dispensation was secured after Burgundian bribes secured Papal acquiescence, and a complex agreement was drawn up between England and Burgundy, covering mutual defence, trade, currency exchange, fishing rights and freedom of travel, all based on the marriage between the Duke and Margaret. By the terms of the marriage contract, Margaret retained her rights to the English throne, and her dowry was promised to Burgundy even if she died within the first year (often, the dowry would return to the bride's family under such circumstances). For his own part, Charles dowered Margaret with the cities of Mechelen, Oudenaarde and Dendermonde.

The marriage contract was completed in February 1468, and signed by Edward IV in March. The Papal dispensation arrived in late May, and preparations to send Margaret to Burgundy began. There was little enthusiasm for it outside Burgundy - the French naturally detested this union between their two enemies, whilst the English merchants, who still suffered from restrictions on the sale of their cloth in England, showed their disapproval by attacking Dutch and Flemish merchants amongst them.

Margaret left Margate for Sluys on 23 June 1468. Lord Scales escorted her to meet her future bridegroom. Despite Louis XI having ordered his ships to seize her on her journey, her convoy crossed without incident, reaching Sluys on the evening of the 25th. The following day, she met with her bridegroom's mother, Isabella, and daughter, Mary; the meeting was a success, and the three of them would remain close friends for the rest of their mutual lives. On 27 June, she met Charles for the first time, and the pair were privately married between 5am and 6am on 3 July, in the house of a wealthy merchant of Damme. Charles then left for Bruges, allowing the new Duchess the honour of entering separately a few hours later.

The celebrations that followed were extravagant even by the standards of the Burgundians, who were already noted for their opulence and generous festivities. The bride made her Joyous Entry in a golden litter drawn by white horses, wearing upon her head a coronet. During this procession, she charmed the burghers of Bruges when she chose to wave to them rather than shut herself away from the wind and rain. In the city itself, wine spurted freely from sculpted archers and artificial pelicans in artificial trees; the canals were decorated with torches, and the bridges decked with flowers; the arms of the happy couple were displayed everywhere, accompanied by the mottoes of the pair: Charles' Je l'ay emprins ("I have undertaken it") and Margaret's Bien en aviengne ("May good come of it"). The celebrations also included the "Tournament of the Golden Tree" that was arranged around an elaborately detailed allegory, designed to honor the bride.

When the Duke and Duchess appeared there, both wore magnificent crowns: Margaret's crown (made in about 1461) was adorned with pearls, and with enamelled white roses for the House of York set between red, green and white enamelled letters of her name, with gold Cs and Ms, entwined with lovers' knots (it can still be seen in the treasury at Aachen Cathedral). The removal of the crown to Aachen was significant, since it allowed its survival from the ravages of the later English Civil War which involved the destruction of all the main English Crown Jewels. It thus remains the only medieval royal British crown still surviving.

Charles wore an equally splendid crown, accompanied by a golden gown encrusted with diamonds, pearls and great jewels. The parades, the streets lined with tapestry hung from houses, the feasting, the masques and allegorical entertainments, the jewels, impressed all observers as "the marriage of the century". It is reenacted at Bruges for tourists every five years with the next event in 2017, the last one having taken place in August 2012.

Duchess of Burgundy

Charles the Bold, Duke of Burgundy: Margaret's husband.

Although the marriage produced no children, Margaret proved a valuable asset to Burgundy. Immediately after her wedding, she journeyed with her stepdaughter Mary through Flanders, Brabant and Hainaut, visiting the great towns: Ursel, Ghent, Dendermonde, Asse, Brussels, Oudenaarde and Kortrijk were all impressed by her intelligence and capability. Less valuable, perhaps, were the family connections she brought. In 1469, her brother, Edward IV, attempted to present Charles the Bold with the Order of the Garter, an honour which would have made Charles guilty of treason against Louis XI had he accepted it; although the Dowager Duchess Isabella warned her son to refuse the offer, which he did, giving Louis XI an excuse for further machinations against Burgundy. In the same year, Edward IV and his brother the Duke of Gloucester were forced to flee England, when their brother the Duke of Clarence, and his father-in-law the Earl of Warwick, rebelled and drove the King into exile; Charles was forced to intercede on the part of his brother-in-law, ordering the London merchants to swear loyalty to Edward under threat of losing their trading rights in Burgundy, a threat that proved successful. But the next year, Margaret was left despairing when Clarence and Warwick supported a French-backed Lancastrian invasion of England: although she, together with her mother Cecily, Dowager Duchess of York, attempted to reconcile Clarence and Edward IV, the rebellion continued, and on 2 October 1470 the Lancastrians were returned to power and Edward had fled to Margaret and Charles in Burgundy.

Her brother's overthrow lessened Margaret's dynastic worth; this, together with regard for her brother, made her plead passionately to her husband that he support Edward and make measures to restore him. Nonetheless, her husband paid little attention to her begging; when he decided to support Edward, it was when he had decided for himself that it was in his best interests to oppose the Lancastrian rule of England, backed as it was by a France which had in early December 1470 been encouraged by the English situation to declare war on Burgundy. Even so, by 4 January 1471, Charles had agreed to support the King-in-exile in regaining the English throne, and this renewal of friendship between the two men was followed by Edward visiting Margaret at Hesdin until 13 January, the first time the pair had seen one another since Margaret's departure from England. By April, Edward was back in England: Margaret followed events carefully, requesting meticulous details of events in England, and was pleased to note the reconciliation between Clarence and Edward. She also provided her mother-in-law, Isabel, with information on the progress of Edward's campaign to regain the throne: it was she, for example, who replied to Isabel's questions over alleged disrespectful treatment of the Earl of Warwick, by explaining that Edward had "heard that nobody in the city believed that Warwick and his brother were dead, so he [Edward] had their bodies brought to St Paul's where they were laid out and uncovered from the chest upwards in the sight of everybody." Edward IV was successfully restored; Edward of Westminster, the son and heir of Henry VI, had died in battle, and Henry VI, who had been briefly restored, died in his cell in the Tower of London two weeks later. The two deaths brought to an end the direct line of the House of Lancaster.

By this time, Isabella's health was beginning to fail; in June 1471, she drew up her will, in which she bequeathed her favourite residence of La-Motte-au-Bois to Margaret. Yet, at the same time, Isabella and Charles struck against Margaret's family: with Henry VI and his son dead, Isabella was one of the most senior members of the House of Lancaster, and had a good claim to the English throne; this claim she legally transferred to Charles in July, which would allow Charles later that year to officially claim the English throne, in despite of his brother-in-law the Yorkist King of England. However, Charles chose not to press the claim, finding it more to his advantage to maintain his support of Edward IV.

By 1477, Margaret's position as Duchess of Burgundy was no longer as brilliant as it had been: after Isabella's death in 1471, Charles had become increasingly tyrannical and grandiose, dreaming of assembling a Kingdom of Lotharingia from the North Sea to the Mediterranean; to accomplish this, he warred continuously with his neighbours, who responded by allying against him. Meanwhile, Louis XI had proved masterful at destabilising the Duchy: Edward IV had been detached from his alliance, Charles' reputation and banking credit had been undermined by Louis, and Burgundian trade was choked by French embargoes. By 1476, the Duke was regarded as a tyrant by his people, who were suffering from the French refusal to export their wine and bread to Burgundy, and who dreaded his terrible reprisals against rebels being unleashed on them. In 1476, he arranged for his daughter and heiress, Mary, to be betrothed to Maximilian of Habsburg; on 5 January 1477, he was dead in battle outside Nancy, in Lorraine.

The Dowager Duchess

Mary the Rich, Duchess of Burgundy and Maximilian of Habsburg.

It was in the wake of her husband's death that Margaret proved truly invaluable to Burgundy. She had always been regarded as a skilful and intelligent politician; now, she went beyond even that. To her stepdaughter, Mary, now Duchess of Burgundy, she gave immeasurable guidance and help: using her own experiences in the court of Edward IV, where she had largely avoided being used as a pawn and contributed to the arrangement of her own marriage, she wisely guided the Duchess in deciding her marriage; against the wave of marriage offers that flooded to the two Duchesses in Ghent (from the recently widowed Duke of Clarence, from the 7-year old Dauphin of France, Charles, from a brother of Edward IV's wife, Elizabeth Woodville), she stood firm, and advised Mary to marry Maximilian of Habsburg, the 18-year old son of the Holy Roman Emperor Frederick III, to whom Charles the Bold had betrothed Mary, and who was ambitious and active enough, in Margaret's opinion, to defend Mary's legacy. She strongly advised Mary to accept Maximilian's suit, and marry him immediately; he arrived in Burgundy on 5 August 1477, and by 17 August had arrived at Ten Waele Castle, in Ghent. He met Mary there - they were both "pale as death", but found each other to their mutual liking - and Margaret took part in the traditional courtly games of love, telling Maximilian before the assembled nobility that his bride "had about her a carnation it behoved him to discover." The carnation duly proved to be in the Duchess's bodice, from which Maximilian carefully removed it. The pair were married the next day, on 18 August.

Burgundy was far from safe: the Duchy of Burgundy itself had already been conquered by the French, who were continuing to attack from all sides, taking advantage of the state's instability. Margaret now moved to secure military support from her brother, Edward IV; he sent enough support to allow Mary and Maximilian to resist the French advances any further, although the Duchy itself remained lost. Louis XI, recognising the danger Margaret posed to him, attempted to buy her off with a French pension and a promise of personally protecting her; she contemptuously refused, and instead sailed in summer 1480 to London, where she negotiated a resumption of the Anglo-Burgundian alliance, and renewed trade. Nor did she stop there in supporting Mary and Maximilian; when, on 22 July 1478, Mary gave birth to a son and heir, Philip, Louis XI had rumours spread that the child was in fact a girl. Margaret, who was standing godmother to the child, matter-of-factly disproved the rumour: as the Christening party left the church of St Donat, she conclusively proved that the child was an undoubted male, by undressing him and presenting him to the assembled crowd. In 1480, the next child of Mary and Maximilian was a girl: the Duke and Duchess named her Margaret, after the dowager Duchess.

Margaret was however dealt a devastating blow in 1482: her much loved stepdaughter, Mary, fell from her horse whilst hunting, and broke her back. The injuries were fatal, and Mary died on 27 March. From the personal point of view, this was a harsh blow to Margaret; politically, Mary's death weakened the Burgundian state further. The Burgundians were now sick of war, and unwilling to accept the rule of Maximilian as regent for his son, the 4-year old Duke Philip, or even as guardian of the children. They forced his hand: on 23 December 1482, the Three Estates of the Lowlands signed the Treaty of Arras with Louis XI, granting him the Burgundian Lowlands, Picardy and the county of Boulogne. Margaret was unable to secure assistance from Edward IV, who had made a truce with France; consequently, she and Maximilian were forced to accept the fait accompli. Maximilian brokered a personal peace with Louis by arranging for his daughter, Margaret, to be betrothed to the young Dauphin of France; she was sent to be raised at the French court, taking with her the Free County of Burgundy and the County of Artois with her as a dowry.

This was not the end of the problems for Margaret and Maximilian: the Netherlanders still disliked his rule of the territory. In 1488, he was taken prisoner in Bruges by the citizens, and was freed only upon making far-reaching concessions. The next year, he was summoned back to Austria by his father, the Emperor; Burgundy was left to be governed by Margaret together with the Burgundian Estates, both of whom also undertook the guardianship of the young Duke Philip, although Maximilian continued to take a distant interest in the country, and a greater interest in his children.

By this time, Margaret had already suffered more personal tragedies. Her brother, the Duke of Clarence, had been executed by Edward IV in 1478; Edward himself had died of illness in 1483 and finally, her younger brother Richard, who took the throne as Richard III was in 1485 killed at the Battle of Bosworth by the leader of the House of Lancaster, Henry Tudor, Earl of Richmond, a cousin and nephew of Henry VI, who went on to become Henry VII, and to marry the daughter of Edward IV, Elizabeth of York. With the death of Richard, the House of York ceased to rule in England. Margaret consequently was a staunch supporter of anyone willing to challenge Tudor, and backed both Lambert Simnel and Perkin Warbeck, even going so far as to acknowledge Warbeck as her nephew, the younger son of Edward IV, the Duke of York. Warbeck was probably an spread that the child was in fact a girl. Margaret, who was standing godmother to the child, matter-of-factly disproved the rumour: as the Christening party left the church of St Donat, she conclusively proved that the child was an undoubted male, by undressing him and presenting him to the assembled crowd. Warbeck was probably an imposter, and would be locked up in the Tower of London and subsequently executed by Henry VII. Henry in fact found Margaret undoubtedly problematic, but there was little he could do, since she was protected by her stepson-in-law Maximilian.

By 1493, Burgundy was recovering. The marriage of Charles VIII to Duchess Anne of Brittany had allowed the eventual return of his fiance, young Margaret, to Burgundy and the care of her step-grandmother the Dowager Duchess; the Peace of Senlis, which returned her to her family, also returned her dowry of the Counties of Artois and Palatine Burgundy, and laid down that Duke Philip would take up personal rule in the following year when he reached age 16. When this duly took place, in 1494, the Duchy duly gained a measure of stability. In 1496, a double marriage was made: young Margaret married John, Prince of Asturias, the heir to the thrones of Castile and Aragon, whilst Philip married John's sister, Joanna, who would later be known as "the Mad" due to her insanity. Neither marriage was a success: Juan died shortly after his wedding, and young Margaret, who bore only a still-born child several months after her husband's death, was sent back to Burgundy, blamed for having failed to provide Spain with an heir; Joanna and Philip, by contrast, produced six children, but their marriage was blighted by the Duke's infidelities and the passionate jealousy of his wife.

In 1498, Joanna bore a daughter, Eleanor. In 1500, she bore a son, who was named Charles after his great-grandfather, Charles the Bold, and she bore a daughter, Isabella, in 1501. When, in 1502, the Duke and Duchess left Burgundy for Castile, where they were to be proclaimed heirs, they left the children in the care of Margaret, who already took a great deal of personal responsibility for them. The tales she told the young Charles, of the English Wars of the Roses, would inspire him with notions of chivalry, aristocratic 'romanticism', and the missionary ideals of Burgundy.

Margaret died on 23 November 1503, at the age of 57, shortly after the return of her step-grandson, Philip the Handsome, to Burgundy. Her death in that year allowed her to be spared the grief of Philip's untimely death of typhoid fever in 1506.

Personal

William Caxton, who introduced the new art of printing into the Kingdom of England and was a staunch Yorkist supporter, counted Margaret as one of his patrons. A presentation copy of Recuyell of the Historyes of Troye, the first book printed in the English language (late 1473- early 1474), has a specially made engraving showing Caxton presenting the book to Margaret. The volume is now in the Huntington Library, San Marino, CA. This "patronage" may be more advertising than analogous to traditional medieval patronage.[1]

Of the many splendid manuscripts commissioned by Margaret when she was Duchess of Burgundy, the richest, most powerful and stylish Duchess of Europe, pride of place goes to the illuminated Visions of Tondal illuminated by Simon Marmion (now at the Getty Museum; a facsimile has been published).[2]

A good-looking woman, but (rarely for the hyperbole of her age) never described as beautiful, Margaret had fine features, and was, at almost 6 feet, very tall, a feature accentuated by her slimness, and her straight and upright bearing. Her eyes were grey, and her mouth was small; her smile allowed her to demonstrate her wry humour, her wit, and her graciousness. In appearance, she was utterly unlike the dark and burly Duke Charles the Bold, who was shorter than her: when they met for the first time, she was forced to bend in order to receive his kiss. But her intelligence was keen, and her will strong; she made a worthy bride for the Duke in nature.

With her husband's family, she got on excellently: she became a mother-figure to her stepdaughter, Mary, who shared Margaret's interests in reading, riding, hunting, and falconry; her mother-in-law, Isabella of Portugal, said of Margaret that she was "well pleased with the sight of this lovely lady, and pleased with her manners and virtues". A capable ruler, she proved a masterful Duchess; she was a Yorkist in sympathies, but she was before that the Duchess of Burgundy. She bore no male heir to succeed to the Duchy, but she preserved it from ruin; to her actions can be ascribed the survival of the Burgundian state, and the prevention of French dominance in Europe.

In fiction and television

Margaret is the major character in the 2008 novel A Daughter of York by Anne Easter Smith. The book begins with Margaret mourning her father and brother and continues through her marriage and the aftermath of her husband's death. She also features in Easter Smith's 2009 The King's Grace.

In the computer game Assassin's Creed: Brotherhood, there is a contract mission in London City, entitled "Pretenders", where the Assassins are to "naturally" kill Margaret of York on behalf of Henry VII.

In the 1972 BBC drama The Shadow of the Tower she was played by Rachel Kempson.

French Aristocracy. Charles the Bold. Born Charles de Bourgogne at Dijon, the son of Philippe III 'the Good' de Bourgogne, Duc de Bourgogne and Isabel de Aviz. He was styled Count of Charolais while still an infant. During his youth, the Dauphin, later Louis XI, was a refugee at his father's court Burgundy, this early exposure to a less ambitious ruler seemed to form a character that was reluctant to consider himself a subject of the king of France. He often followed an independent diplomatic course in his relations with England and Paris. He married for the first time in 1440 to Catherine de Valois, daughter of Charles VII of France. She died childless some six years later. He married a second time to Isabel de Bourbon, daughter of Charles I de Bourbon, Duc de Bourbon in October 1454. They had one daughter before her death on 1465. Charles often interfered between Louis XI and his nobles, most notably during the rebellion known as the League of the Public Weal in 1465 and 1466. He succeeded to the title of Duc de Bourgogne in 1467, and married for the third time to Margaret Plantagenet, daughter of Richard Plantagenet, Duke of York and Lady Cecily Neville, in July 1468. Louis XI secretly fomented rebellion in the Duke's territories and the duke retaliated by invading France, taking possession of Nesle and massacring its inhabitants. He continually extended his power and influence; in 1469 the Archduke of Austria, Sigismund, sold him the county of Ferrette, and the landgraviate of Alsace, In 1472 he bought the duchy of Gelderland from its old duke. He then attempted to separate Burgundy from France by negotiating with the emperor Frederick III to make Burgundy an independent kingdom with himself as sovereign. His plan never succeeded as his many enemies began allying themselves with Louis against him. Even his brother-in-law, Edward IV of England, signed the treaty of Picquigny in August 1475 with Louis, ending the Hundred Years War. Charles then launched punitive attacks against the duchy of Lorraine and seized Nance in November 1475. In February 1476 he attacked Morat, but was defeated. In October he lost Nance; he then rallied and besieged the town with an army decimated by winter conditions. With a few thousand men, he met the opposition in January 1477. He was killed in the battle and his abused body was discovered days later. He was occasionally known by the nickname Charles the Rash. (bio by: Iola)

Richard Plantagenet

Memorial Photos Flowers Share Edit

Birth: Sep. 21, 1411
Death: Dec. 30, 1460
Wakefield
West Yorkshire, England

English nobleman, claimant to the throne. He was descended from Edward III through his father, Richard, earl of Cambridge, grandson of that king, and also through his mother, Anne Mortimer, great-granddaughter of Lionel, duke of Clarence, who was the third son of Edward III. Richard was brought up as a royal ward, having become Duke of York on the death of his uncle Edward in 1415. He inherited (1425) the vast estates of another uncle, Edmund de Mortimer, 5th earl of March, which made him the richest landholder in England. He served in the retinue of Henry VI in France (1431) and was lieutenant general of France and Normandy (1436–37). In 1438 he married Cecily Neville, daughter of the earl of Westmoreland. He served again as lieutenant general in France from 1441 to 1445 but became increasingly discontented with the English government, which diverted men and funds from his operations to those of John Beaufort, 1st duke of Somerset. The death of the king's uncle Humphrey, duke of Gloucester, in 1447 made York heir presumptive to the throne, and the government, to get him out of the way, promptly ordered him to Ireland as lieutenant. He did not go until 1449 and returned in 1450 to struggle against the growing power of Queen Margaret of Anjou and Edmund Beaufort, 2d duke of Somerset. In 1453 a son born to Henry VI displaced York as heir to the throne, but the onset of the king's insanity enabled York to secure control of the government as protector (1454). Dismissed when the king recovered, York resorted to arms (see Roses, Wars of the) and, with the help of his wife's relatives, most notably Richard Neville, earl of Warwick, won the first battle of St. Albans (1455), in which Somerset was killed. After this victory York once more became protector, but by 1456 the queen's faction had regained power. Forced to flee to Ireland in 1459, York returned after the victory of his supporters at Northampton (1460) and for the first time laid claim to the throne. A compromise was arranged by which York was recognized as protector and heir apparent to the throne, but Margaret (whose own son had thus been disinherited) gathered her forces and defeated the Yorkists at the battle of Wakefield, in which York was slain. His son, Edward of York, however, was to secure the throne as Edward IV. (bio by: Erik Lander)
